Polling changes may confuse voters

Some districts changed, two precincts absorbed

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus

When Hancock County's qualified electors go to the polls in the August 5 primary elections, many will find they are now residents of another supervisor, constable, Justice Court judge and representative's district.

Mandated by the Federal Government to redistrict following each general census, district lines have to be changed to balance the number of residents in each, Circuit

Clerk Pam Metzler said last.

Also Hancock County will now have 26 voting precincts instead of 28, as in previous county elections.

The qualified electors who voted at Hancock North Central School will now vote at the Standard Fire Station on Highway 603, or Community Center on Highway 43.

The Central School voting precinct in Bay St. Louis was no longer feasible and those voters have been transferred to either the Hancock County Courthouse, or Bay St. Louis Library on Ulman Avenue, Metzler said.

The only Hancock County Board of Supervisors district not to have

Fire fighters from Bayside, Clermont Harbor and East Hancock Volunteer Fire Departments responded to a mobile home fire on West Issaquena Street in Bayside with temperatures hovering near 95 degrees around 12:40 p.m. Thursday. Surveying the fire from right, is Bayside Fire Chief John Favaloro, State Fire Marshall David Dry and Hancock County Emergency Management Agency director Brian Adam. Favaloro indicated the structure was completely engulfed by fire when firefighters arrived and its origin was undetermined. There was apparently no electric connection to the structure, which was unoccupied. Dry said he was not at the scene officially, as he was in the county meeting with Adam when the alarm was sounded.

Five adult pit bulls dogs and six pit bull puppies who were found chained and starving in the woods in June in rural Pass Christian have either been euthanized or adopted, said a Humane Society of South Mississippi employee on Friday.

The dogs' owner, James Agee, 32, who lives on Edwin Ladner Rd. was arrested on Wednesday on charges of animal neglect. The dogs were found near Grace Rd. and taken to the Humane Society.

Agee, the third person in the unincorporated area of Harrison county to be arrested on such charges in the past six weeks, posted a $500 bond and was released. He will come to

Lightning starts fire at Diamondhead home

BY GEOFF BELCHER
News Editor

A Diamondhead home was nearly destroyed Thursday after it was struck by lightning and caught fire.

Fortunately, Lt. Tony Sciacca of the Diamondhead Fire Department said, no one was injured when the fire broke out at Marshal Kyger's home at 7536 Crooked Stick Dr., but "the house was a complete loss. They may be able to save some things -- a few cabinets, some heirlooms ... but that's about it."

No one was home when the fire broke out, Sciacca said. A worker at a neighboring house reported the fire at about 4:59

DMR wins Gulf Guardian Award

THE SEA COAST ECHO

The Mississippi Department of Marine Resources (DMR) will receive a first place Gulf Guardian Award in the Government Category for its Derelict Crab Trap Removal Program. The award will be presented to members of the DMR's Shrimp & Crab Bureau Sept. 24 at an 8:30 a.m. ceremony at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum in Biloxi in conjunction with the Southern States Environmental Conference and Exhibition.

"The Mississippi Department of Marine Resources is continuing to set the standard for other states to follow when it comes to the preservation of our state's waterways as well as the Gulf of Mexico," Governor Ronnie Musgrove said. "This award is a testament to the tremendous dedication of the DMR staff and their good work for our entire state."

The Gulf of Mexico Program developed the Gulf Guardian awards as a method of recognizing and honoring the businesses, community groups, individuals, and agencies that are taking positive steps to keep the Gulf healthy, beautiful and productive. The Gulf of Mexico Program began in 1988 to protect, restore, and maintain the health and productivity of the Gulf of Mexico ecosystem in economically sustainable ways. Award entries were received from Alabama, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, and Texas. A first, second, and third place award is given each year in six categories: individual, business, youth and education, nonprofit organizations, government and partnership efforts.

"Derelict crab traps can pose a serious navigational hazard to boaters and may be a danger to marine and aquatic life. The closed crab season allowed us to remove these traps from Mississippi's marine waters and collect valuable data about the quantity and type of marine life that may become ensnared in these abandoned traps," DMR Executive Director William Walker said.

"Our Shrimp & Crab Bureau staff have logged countless hours over the last four years removing and recycling derelict crab traps. It is gratifying to see their efforts recognized with a Gulf Guardian Award."

More than 4,000 derelict crab traps have been retrieved and recycled through the Derelict Crab Trap Removal Program since the program began in 1999. Derelict traps are defined as traps, which are un-buoyed, unmarked and not actively fished. These traps are abandoned or lost due to many factors including floats that are cut by boat propellers, caught in shrimp trawls, storms and theft. These traps are a navigational hazard and may contribute to crab and fin-fish mortality.

"The success of the Derelict Crab Trap Removal Program is a direct result of the commitment of the DMR staff and of the partners, volunteers and fishermen in the community who devote their time and energy to this effort," DMR fisheries biologist Traci Floyd said. "Together we are making Mississippi's waterways safer for boaters and marine life."

The Derelict Crab Trap Removal Program, a joint effort of the DMR and Gulf Coast Research Lab, is funded in part by the Mississippi Department of Environmental Quality through the Mississippi Coastal Impact Assistance Program (CIAP). CIAP is a federally sponsored program that provides money for the state and counties to address statewide coastal issues.

Gulf States Marine Fisheries Commission is also a partner in the Derelict Crab Trap Removal program.

The Mississippi Department of Marine Resources is dedicated to enhancing, protecting and conserving marine interests of the State by managing all marine life, public trust wetlands, adjacent uplands and waterfront areas to provide for the optimal commercial, recreational, educational and economic uses of these resources consistent with environmental concerns and social changes. Landscaping and hurricane preparedness conference set

SPECIAL TO THE EDITOR

Courtesy Federal Emergency Management Agency and the Hancock County Civil Defense

The public is invited to the 3rd Annual Hurricane Fair on Thursday, July 31st, from 4 p.m. until 7 p.m., at the Hancock County Civic Center on Longfellow Road. The public can learn about the latest technologies, products available to protect property from damaging winds and water, and learn actions that they can take to reduce property damage from storms.

Hurricanes and high winds can wreck havoc on your landscaping. And your landscaping can contribute to property damage during windstorms such as hurricanes, tropical storms and tornadoes. Pre-Hurricane maintenance, good housekeeping and following simple tips can prevent your landscaping from damaging your home during this hurricane season and every hurricane season.

Remove Trees and Potential Windborne Missiles

If the area, immediately surrounding your house contains trees, outbuildings, trashcans, yard debris, or other materials that can be moved by the wind, your house will be more likely to be damaged during a hurricane or tornado. Wind can topple trees on to your house and can pick up smaller objects and drive them through windows and glass doors.

Insure that all trees are far enough away from your house that if the trees fall, the trees will not fall on your house. The distance between your house and any nearby tree should always be greater than the height the tree will reach when it is fully grown.

Storage sheds and other outbuildings should be securely anchored, either to a permanent foundation or with straps and ground anchors. Smaller objects, such as trash cans, barbecue grills, and outdoor furniture should also be anchored or, if you have adequate warning, moved indoors. You should also clear away any debris, such as fallen tree branches.

Other Tips- Hurricane Preparation

- Native trees are better adapted to the soil and wind conditions in Hancock County. When landscaping, consider using native species. Contact the Mississippi Extension Service- Hancock County Office for a listing of native species.
- The straps and ground anchors used for manufactured homes can be used to anchor outbuildings, especially small garden sheds, which are usually not placed on a permanent foundation.
- Move outdoor furniture inside, but if you can't, secure outdoor furniture and barbecue grills by bolting them to decks or patios, or by attaching them to ground anchors with cables or chains.
- Remove broken limbs from trees in your yard.

Other Tips- Hurricane Recovery

- Remove broken limbs to leave a smooth finish with the trunk or branch.
- Uprooted trees may still survive. Fertilize according to soil test recommendations to promote root growth, and water the tree during dry periods. Prune dead limbs during pruning cycles over the next several years. Guy wires and braces should be used for a minimum of 2 years.

- Soil can erode from the area around the roots of trees. Cover the eroded roots with soil to the original soil level, but do not overfill. Apply pine straw or other mulch to prevent the roots from drying.
- One in every four trees dies from a lightning strike. Death can occur immediately, or as long as twelve months later. Notify your insurance company of a tree strike, in case the tree dies later. Fertilize the tree for root growth, according to soil test recommendations, and water the damaged tree during dry periods.
- Landscaped areas that are flooded can be impacted by floodwaters. Remove the silt deposits from the tree root area, back to the original soil levels, and mulch to maintain moisture.

Be sure to pick up "A Homeowner's Guide for Coastal Landscapes; Preparing for the Storm" developed by the Southeast Mississippi Resource Conservation and Development Council at the Hancock County Hurricane Fair, July 31st from 4 p.m. until 7 p.m. at the Hancock County Civic Center on Longfellow Road. The booklet will be available at the Hancock County Building Office display booth.

If you have any questions about Hurricane preparedness or the Hancock County Hurricane Fair, please call the Hancock County Emergency Management Agency at 467-9226.

Cuevas' Quotes

by Ellis C. Cuevas
Publisher Emeritus

Everyone seems to be talking about the same subject these days, and that is the amount of rainfall we have had over the past several months.

I can recall several years ago when it was so dry, large oak, pine and other trees died for a lack of rain.

The experts say weather conditions run in cycles and that is for sure along the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Vegetable gardeners have had a poor season this year in reports I have been receiving because of the heavy rainfall.

A normally staple gardener favorite tomatoes have been hit hard and not too many folks have had success this year.

A fresh ripened tomato from the vine is hard to beat in taste.

Hopefully Fall gardens will be more successful

In less than a month school bells will be welcoming youngsters.

If parents have not already, the time is now to start getting school clothing and supplies.

It was not very long ago when summer vacations were three months from school, but that time now has dwindled to only two months.

Of course there are many breaks during the school year and the number of school days are about the same over a year's period.

I know as a student I sure welcomed the three months of summer, whether it was for work or fun.

Our know our summer programs for the young, such as baseball, softball, vacations, library programs, etc., sure keeps parents very busy during the summer months.

It is hope that all of our youngsters are enjoying summer activities and will be eager to settle back to school work next month.

On Monday, the 15th annual Ladner's Gulf Coast School of Basketball, now with its name changed to All-American Basketball School, camp will be held through Thursday at St. Stanislaus.

The camp is open to boys ages 5 through 12th grade and the fee is $65 per camper.

The camp's director is Jay Ladner, St. Stanislaus head basketball coach, and will feature several basketball coaches from Mississippi and Louisiana.

Guest speaker for the camp will be basketball coaching legend and Mississippi Association of Coaches Hall of Fame member J. Larry Ladner of Kiln.

The camp will be from 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. daily and registration will begin at 4:40 p.m. on Monday prior to the beginning of the camp.

This is a great opportunity for boys interested in basketball and instructions will come from experts.

For further information, contact Jay Ladner at 467-9057, extension 224, or 452-2916.

Prescription drugs and medical liability

Americans are facing two major health care issues: One is the spiraling cost of prescription drugs making essential medications unaffordable for many seniors. The other is the rising cost of medical liability insurance causing doctors to abandon their practice or flee many lawsuit-friendly states like Mississippi and driving up health care prices across the board. Some folks look at the prescription drug and medical liability issues separately. I do not. The two are related, and the Senate cannot effectively address one without doing the other.

From the Senate

By U.S. Sen. Trent Lott

America should implement a Medicare prescription drug benefit for needy seniors, but needy is the key word here. American taxpayers shouldn't be forced to subsidize prescription drug bills for those easily capable of buying their own medications. A prescription drug benefit in Medicare should be targeted toward people who really need it. To do otherwise is unfair to taxpayers and unfair to the truly needy seniors among us.

Generally speaking seniors are the most financially independent age group of Americans. They have worked longer, lived longer, saved longer and accumulated assets. So, there are millions of older Americans with ample resources to pay for their needed medications without a taxpayer subsidy. However, if Ted Kennedy and Hillary Clinton have their way, every senior in America will be entitled to the same prescription drug benefit - regardless of personal wealth. It would be a massive, super-expensive expansion of government, providing seniors enjoying a blissful, financially lucrative retirement with the same taxpayer-financed drug benefit as those seniors living on fixed incomes.

That is wrong. Any prescription drug benefit in Medicare should have a means test as standard equipment, just as many other government programs do. Blanket coverage for everyone over a certain age without means testing is not only unfair, but wastes valuable resources on wealthy seniors that could be targeted specifically toward those forced to choose between groceries and medications.

To financially implement even a targeted prescription

What Bush should have said in Africa

BY JOHN SPARKS

President Bush is back from Africa. His trip was intended to show that America cares about the plight of African Third World countries. However, if one views the bulk of Sub-Saharan African countries as sick patients needing treatment, then Dr. Bush should have honestly diagnosed the sources of their current decline. Here are three points he should have made, but did not.

First, many of the maladies with which African countries have been afflicted since independence are traceable to the actions of their own leaders.

The late Mobutu Sese Seko is typical. During his thirty-five year regime in Zaire (Congo) he filled his own pockets and those of his supporters with the people's money. He built dozens of palaces, residences in France and Morocco. He squandered millions. After visiting New York City, he even insisted on building a smaller version of the World Trade Center in Kinshasa, the Zairian capital. This is only a glimpse at the waste and self-aggrandizement of his spending.

The gross misrule of Amin (Uganda), Bokassa (Central African Republic), Mengistu (Ethiopia), today's Mugabe (Zimbabwe) and a dozen others produced much of the current instability and poverty in Africa. This analysis is "hard to swallow" but accurate.

Secondly, Dr. Bush should have expressed regret that African governments, with few exceptions, embraced "African socialism." State enterprises, parastatal agencies, agricultural price controls, heavy governmental regulation, became and still remain the public policy of African states.

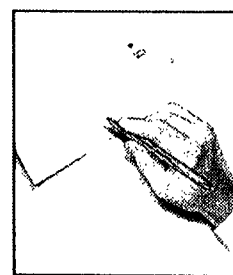

State enterprises were often created for show rather than in response to true economic demand.

Parastatal marketing boards held down agricultural prices and, as a consequence, diminished the incentive for farmers to produce. These same parastatals became the spawning ground for nepotism and bribery. The heavy regulation of economic activity-long waiting periods to get licenses, permits, authorizations-established African bureaucracies as being just as dilatory as their Indian and Latin American counterparts.

Letters to the Editor

Our letters policy

The Sea Coast Echo welcomes comments from its readers. Letters must be signed and include address or telephone number. Letters should be brief, preferably typewritten and double-spaced. Only one letter per writer per month. The editor reserves the right to edit or reject letters. Letters of thanks, expressions of appreciation and political endorsements are inappropriate.

Only in the last ten years have some African governments started to privatize selected state enterprises, lessened the stranglehold of parastatals, abolished price controls and loosened the regulatory bonds that have thwarted economic progress in Africa. But there is much more to be done there before there is a healthy recovery.

Thirdly, and ironically, while African governments pursued policies that were harmful to their people, they neglected the long-recognized functions of government-keeping order, protecting property, providing a sound currency and expanding the African infrastructure such as roads and bridges. Consequently, their countries got sicker and sicker.

On the matter of order, hundreds of thousands of Africans have been killed in the last two decades by civil disorder, which their governments failed to prevent. Private property of natives and of foreign investors have been violated by the voracious appetites of African governments. Organizations that assess the "riskiness" of emerging economies regularly list African countries as presenting "maximum" risk to investors. Sadly, the international investors that could bring needed money capital to investment-starved Africa sink shockingly little into African ventures. Monetary instability-the fever of hyperinflation-drug benefit in Medicare, we must find ways to reduce other Medicare program costs. The best way to reduce these costs is for Congress to pass medical liability reform legislation. This could save Medicare more than $11 billion in the next decade. -Throughout the country, physicians are having a tough time practicing medicine because they cannot afford the ever-rising liability insurance rates resulting from frivolous lawsuits. This is driving up health care costs across the board.

States like California and

Louisiana have handled this issue well, with tort reform measures already in place that have significantly curtailed medical liability costs. In fact, the Senate has considered legislation modeled after California's laws that govern medical liability. Some folks say the U.S. Senate should leave this issue alone and let the states deal with medical liability reform, but I disagree. This is a national problem that deserves a national solution. Mississippi is already among the dozens of states in a medical liability crisis. Of the doctors who haven't left or ceased their practice in these states, many make no secret they are practicing "defensive medicine," ordering additional procedures and medications just to protect themselves against lawsuits.

If left unaddressed, this problem will continue festering, driving up prices across the health care continuum.

The Senate is trying to put a prescription drug benefit into the Medicare program, and I believe it must be targeted specifically toward needy seniors.

However, even with a targeted prescription drug benefit, Congress must reduce the financial burden of our Medicare program.

Curbing the costs of medical liability will go a long way toward helping seniors access crucial prescription drugs - and it will go a long way toward helping doctors to better help us all.

has also plagued the continent. Zaire is a case in point. In 1993 it took three Zaires, the local currency, to purchase one U.S. dollar. Four years later it took an astounding 162,000 Zaires to purchase one U.S. dollar! When Laurent Kabila succeeded Mobutu as dictator of Zaire, he established a new currency, the Congolese franc, but in 2000 he was only able to lower inflation to a distressing 511%. Hyperinflation-produced by the government printing press-destroys savings and makes inter-regional trade difficult. Finally, the infrastructure-largely roads-has been allowed to deteriorate at an astonishing rate. For example, the Congo, at independence had 88,000 miles of all-weather roads.

Twenty years later roads traversable in all seasons had declined to only 6,000 miles and is lower today, stifling the movement of goods and people.

For the most part, the countries of Sub-Saharan Africa are emergency room cases. Unless visitors like President Bush are painfully blunt about the nature of the maladies that threaten them, the patients are likely to become completely debilitated.

McNeil issues citizen alert about telephone scheme

THE SEA COAST ECHO

The Bay St. Louis Police Department would like to alert citizens, especially the elderly, concerning a fraud, which concerns two black females allegedly finding a large sum of money. The females approach a person and ask them if they or one of their relatives had dropped the money.

The females stated that they work for a local business and ask the person to wait outside while they talk to their boss and see what he wants to do with the money.

They then come back to the potential victim, stating that their boss says since no one claimed the money they should split it, but that someone needs to pay the taxes and ask the potential victim to pay the taxes. They attempt to obtain the name of the bank and account numbers and access codes of the potential victim, hoping that they will give this up, take them to the bank and obtain real money.

Persons going into shopping centers should be on the alert for this type scam and if people fitting this description and alleging that they found or was given a large sum of money approach them, please contact your local police or sheriff's department.

The black females are described as approximately the same height, about 5ft-6 inches tall, one possibly in her early forties and the other appearing to be younger, wearing similar clothing.

One of the females has a long ponytail and when seen on another occasion had short hair. Ponytail was possibly a hairpiece. Both females were believed to be traveling in a small dark vehicle, possibly a Honda. Subjects may also be in company with a black male subject, no description known at this time.

These females attempted to commit this fraud in one of our local shopping centers, stating they had found a billfold with a large sum of money in it ($98,000.00), but the intended victim did not cooperate and notified this office. The suspect females were seen again the next day in the same area.

The Bay St. Louis Police Department is actively pursuing this investigation and are asking citizens and business owners alike to be on the lookout for these females. If anyone has any information that may assist us in this case please contact the Bay St. Louis Police Department at 467-9221.

Hope Haven looking for a few good advisory board members

The sitting Board members of Hope Haven Children's Shelter would like to invite members of the public who are interested in helping to provide services to abused and neglected children to join them as "Advisory Board members" for Hope Haven.

The purpose of creating an Advisory Board, is to widen the public interest and participation in the goals and functions of Hope Haven Children's Shelter. Advisory Board members do not have the legal obligations or responsibilities associated with full board membership but they do have to be interested in actively promoting the cause of the organization and assisting the Board Members and Director in a variety of areas.

Typically, advisory Board members help an organization out by promoting the organization, assisting with fundraisers and events, speaking to other organizations, groups and businesses and other administrative functions.

When approved by the Board, volunteers would serve a one year term and may serve longer if they desire. If you are interested in helping us chart the future of one of the best small non profit shelters in the State serving abused and neglected children, contact the Hope Haven offices at 228-467-7945, fax 228-466-4707 or e-mail childrenathopehavenshelter.org for an application.

Misfits Street Krewzers ... for Life

The Misfits Street Krewzers classic car club on Saturday donated an additional $1,250 to the Hancock County Leg of the American Cancer Society's Relay for Life effort. The club raised the funds through car shows in the area. The money will be spent to help local people who have been diagnosed with cancer.

Voters -- precincts change lines changed is District One, while the other four had vast area changes.

"The addition of a new Justice Court, constable and house seats, in addition to supervisor district line changes affected the voting of some 15,000 of Hancock's 24,910 registered voters," Metzler reported Friday.

Metzler added, "We have mailed 15,000 cards to those registered voters who have had some changes in their voting. Of those mailed, we have had returned a couple hundred for insufficient addresses."

She emphasized, "It is very important for a voter to vote in the precinct where they reside according to the new voting lines. Even for affidavit ballots to be counted, they must take place in the correct precinct."

The only precincts without any changes were South Bay, City Hall, North Bay

West, Lakeshore, Clermont Harbor, Arlington, Waveland East, Bayou Phillip and Waveland West, to according the circuit clerk's office.

"If anyone is not sure as to where they vote, they really need to call the circuit clerk's office at 467-5265, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. We hope voters will call prior to election day, too," Metzler added.

trial on August 13 in Justice Court.

Between 10 and 15 million pets are abandoned each year, most as a result of unwanted litters due to animals not being spayed and neutered. Many mothers to be or new mothers are abandoned with their litters.

In Hancock County 79 percent of the 4,000-plus animals brought to the shelter are euthanized, most due to lack of space at the shelter or the shortage of homes wanting to adopt the animals.

The shelter recently received a $15,000 grant from Pets Mart which will be used to finish up a spay/neuter clinic at the shelter which will offer reduced price spay/neuters. This process can greatly reduce the number of unwanted animals.

Recently the shelter sent a shipment of puppies to Maine, all of whom had homes already. Spay/neuter programs have worked so well there that there is actually a shortage of adoptable puppies.

Two years ago the Aldermen in Waveland voted unanimously to pass legislation to make it illegal to chain an animal in the city limits. At that time they also voted in legislation that would force pet owners to be responsible for their pets, making it possible to prosecute owners who abandoned their pets.

p.m. Thursday.

"When he found it, it had a lot of flames coming through the roof," Sciacca said. "It was already fully involved" when Diamondhead firefighters arrived on the scene just minutes later. "It took our crews about an hour to get it under control."

The fire started on the roof and quickly spread to the attic, then the rest of the house, he said.

"Luckily, they had insurance," Sciacca said. "We've had some situations in some of the more rural areas where people were left with nothing but the clothes on their backs."

Gene Taylor introduces Mississippi Gulf Coast National Heritage Act

THE SEA COAST ECHO

U.S. Rep. Gene Taylor has introduced the Mississippi Gulf Coast National Heritage Act (H.R. 2689). The bill would create a six-county area in South Mississippi that would allow funding for a program that would showcase the heritage of the Gulf Coast. The counties included in H.R. 2689 are Jackson, Harrison, Hancock, George, Stone and Pearl River.

Dr. Bill Walker, Executive Director of the Mississippi Department of Marine Resources (DMR), had requested Congressman Taylor to introduce the legislation. Walker said,

"Congressman Taylor's bill creates a program that gives us an opportunity to promote the assets, activities, fishing and seafood heritage of our state's six lower counties. I'm very pleased that Congressman Taylor has introduced this bill. It will allow us to work with the city and county officials of this area to promote economic development and tourism."

Taylor said, "I appreciate Dr. Walker and DMR's initiative on this issue that will be important to the heritage of these six counties. I'm also pleased that the other members of Mississippi's delegation in the U.S. House have signed on as co-sponsors of H.R. 2689 and that Sen. Lott has introduced a companion bill in the Senate. As person who loves the outdoors, this bill would create a real opportunity for generations of Mississippians and visitors to enjoy the beautiful natural resources and heritage of our coastal area."

Taylor's bill would allow the Mississippi Gulf Coast National Heritage to designate a number of programs that would be eligible for federal funding. The programs would include educational projects, preservation of resources and artifacts and enhancement of natural resources. Walker said that DMR has a Comprehensive Resource Management Plan that is a joint effort of federal, state and local governments. The plan provides a natural foundation to establish the Gulf Coast National Heritage Area. Taylor's bill would authorize appropriations of $10 million, of which not more than $1 million would be available during any single fiscal year. The federal share of any activity under the Gulf Coast National Heritage Act would not be more than 50 percent.

Taylor's bill has been referred to the House Committee on Resources.

Sports Hall of Fame: The 2003 Conerly Trophy will be presented on Gulf Coast

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

The Mississippi Sports Hall of Fame announced Tuesday, July 15 that the 2003 Conerly Trophy will be presented in Biloxi on December 4. The Conerly Trophy is awarded annually to Mississippi's best collegiate football player as voted by a panel of print and news media.

Last year's winner, USM senior linebacker Rod Davis, is from Gulfport and is looking to be the first repeat winner in the award's history. He was also the first USM player and defensive standout to win the award.

However, he will have some stiff competition as the other two finalists from a year ago will also be back in the hunt.

Senior Ole Miss All-American quarterback Eli Manning and JSU quarterback Robert Kent both return for their senior years.

Davis was named an All-

American last season after leading the nation in tackles. Prior to the 2003 season, he has been tabbed as a first-team All-American by several publication's such as Lindy's, Athlon's, and The Sporting News. Davis figures to be a high round draft choice in the 2004 NFL Draft.

Manning, the youngest son of Ole Miss' most famous gridiron legend Archie Manning, returns for his senior campaign. Last year, the junior field general led the SEC in total offense and set numerous school records.

He also has a chance to become the first repeat winner in the award's history as he was the 2001 winner of the trophy. Manning has also been mentioned as an All-American by several publications heading into the 2003 season.

Robert Kent, the record-setting quarterback from Jackson State, was a finalist the past two years.

The award is named after the former Ole Miss All-American and NFL great Charlie Conerly. He was named the NFL Rookie of the Year in 1948 and led the New York Giants to the NFL Championship in 1956.

Mississippi Sports Foundation Executive Director Michael Rubenstein added, "We wanted to stage the event in South Mississippi because we want to elevate the museum's profile in this area."

"We have a great senior class this year and it will be a chance for the fans to say farewell to a great college player."

The presentation will take place on December 4 at the Bayview Hotel in Biloxi. A reception will be held from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. followed by the presentation from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. A guest speaker for the event will be announced at a later date. Some of the former guest speakers include former Dallas Cowboys coaching legend Tom Landry, former New York Giant and TV announcer Frank Gifford and former Green Bay quarterback Bart Starr. All three former speakers have been enshrined in the NFL Hall of Fame.

Past winners of the Conerly Trophy include former Pascagoula and Delta State running back Tregal Thomas (1996), Ole Miss quarterback Stewart Patridge (1997), Mississippi State running back James Johnson (1998), Ole Miss running back Deuce McAllister (1999), Delta State quarterback Josh Bright (2000), current Ole Miss quarterback Eli Manning (2001), and current USM linebacker Rod Davis (2002).

The Temptation and the Fall, embodied by 'The Dancers'

It was a Saturday wedding up in Picayune. It was hot, but inside the small Baptist church, it was cool. The couple was young, the music and singing nice, and their parents, grandparents and about a hundred friends were all gathered in the cool church to wish the two a joyous start on their becoming one.

The bride was the daughter of one of Stella's former coworkers. Stella retired in early February and the wedding gave her a chance to catch up on the gossip of her old office. At the reception later, Stella and several of her friends grabbed a table and talked and talked and talked. I didn't know anyone and stood against the wall besides several men who talked hunting.

Finally we left. The long drive back in my '89 Ford silver Ranger was punctuated by the air conditioner refusing to come on. Stella made no comment and sat on her side of the cab with what I felt was a silent censure of my pick up. It was a long, hot, thirty-two miles.

When we arrived home, I went inside to change into a pair of shorts and a loose shirt. Stella stopped and picked up an envelope under the wipers of her car before coming in. I had gotten as far as taking off one of my shoes when Stella came into the room.

"Don't change! Sheila left tickets to a ballet that her daughter's dance group is having at the Bay High auditorium. I'll fix some ice tea and we can go."

A children's ballet performance! I slowly put the shoe back on and went to the kitchen where Stella sat reading the day's mail. She had set out two tall glasses of iced sun tea.

"Does it say how long it will last?" Stella kept on looking at the mail.

Finally, we left, again taking the pickup, because it was the easiest to get to in the driveway. The air had cooled considerably and, with the windows open, the drive was almost pleasant. At the school, I parked on the crowded lawn in a line of newer trucks and we got out and headed for the auditorium. I turned and looked back as we walked. The silver Ranger catching the light of the late afternoon sun sat placidly among the other pickups, looking as pretty as it did a dozen and more years ago when I bought it. When we went inside, I felt a lot better.

The ballet was nice and pleasant to watch. The children did all the right things with no miscues that I could see. Sheila's daughter Catherine was quite lively and executed her steps in time with a majority of the others. The parents all clapped at each of the more difficult steps and it was obvious that everyone was enjoying themselves.

Then came the Temptation and Fall in the Garden of Eden.

It became quickly obvious that the teenage pair who played Adam and Eve were beyond the skills of the young children we had seen earlier. At first as they moved, there was applause, then none, then silence. The two moved as one on the stage, flowing perfectly together and the stage and its stark scenery became a mere frame for the charm of their performance.

Enter the Serpent, slim and tall. Now the wonderful grace we had seen in the pair's dance had an elegant counter point in the waving, sinuous flow of the upright serpent. The three danced apart and together; now Eve and the Serpent, now Adam and the Serpent, now all three. Then came the apple and then the fall and then, too quickly, the enchantment of the three and the wonderful poetry of Genesis was over.

Driving back home, Stella and I talked about what we had seen (the air conditioning had begun working again - the fan had evidently been stuck). We both agreed that part of the magic was because it was so unexpected. Something beautiful that was suddenly there and just as quickly, gone.

We had both seen an incident similar to that several years ago in Mexico. I was giving a paper at a conference in San Diego when a friend I had not seen in years asked us to come down and spend a few days at his Ensenada home in Baja California. Well we went and had a wonderful time. But what happened when he took us to lunch when we arrived is what I want to talk about here.

We visited an old winery, Santo Tomas. The inside of the vast building had been painstakingly restored and the gargantuan unpainted wooden barrels had been converted to rooms and spaces for meetings. The light flowing through the windows set high in the walls was all that lit the vast cool spaces and their moot-filled shafts of light gave the building a feeling of monastrial stillness.

As we walked, eight, nine and ten year old girls hurried by us in stark pristine white tutus. About twenty of them disappeared in one of the smaller meeting rooms. Curious, we walked over to see what was inside.

A long practice bar lined one wall and each girl was assuming her position as the male instructor walked along the line speaking softly to each. As they started an elementary exercise to loosen up, the instructor spotted us and speaking an almost liquid Castellanos, introduced himself and invited us to come in and sit and watch.

The light from the lofty windows washed the dark wooden walls and we sat mesmerized as the instructor moved slowly along the line of girls as they began a choreographed series of practice steps. He had a small baton and he would touch a girl here or there to accent his unspoken instruction. Sometimes he would briefly hold a child's hand in a way to insure its proper position of elegance. The brief, soft touch of his hand as he did so was pure grace.

And always there was the music. And he was the music! There was no record player, just his soft, beautiful humming that filled the room completely with a Mozart air. His voice was lovely and the children moved with a beautiful grace in perfect harmony to its rhythm. They moved in a room that was magically lit by the light, by themselves, and the soft humming whisper of his voice.

That was several years ago, but the dancers on the Bay auditorium stage on a hot Saturday evening brought it all back to Stella and I.

12th Annual Steak & Steak Dinner and Silent Auction Scheduled

THE SEA COAST ECHO

The Boys & Girls Clubs of the Gulf Coast and Outback Steakhouse will host the 12th annual Steak & Steak Dinner & Silent Auction, Tuesday, July 29, 2003. The evening kicks off with a pre-dinner reception and silent auction at 5:30 p.m. at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum Convention Center. The Steak & Steak Dinner is a celebration held by Clubs across the country - and it is the Boys & Girls Clubs of the Gulf Coast's largest annual fundraising event. Last year the event contributed over $145,000 to the organization's numerous programs in character and leadership development, health and life skills, education and career development, the arts, and sports, fitness and recreation.

The 12th Annual Steak & Steak Dinner is Chaired by Gloria Newman, owner of Creative Learning Center in Biloxi. Co-Chair for the event is Connie Rockco, Harrison County District 5 Supervisor.

The featured speaker for this year's dinner will be former MSU and pro baseball player Will Clark. Clark, originally from New Orleans, played for Mississippi State from 1984-1985, played on the 1984 Olympic Team and eventually went on to play first base for the San Francisco Giants, Baltimore Orioles and St. Louis Cardinals before retiring in

Over 500 community leaders, elected officials, business leaders and volunteers as well as 300 Club Members are expected to attend this year's event. The highlight of this year's dinner will be the presentation of Youth Awards and the announcing of the Boys & Girls Clubs of the Gulf Coast's 2003-2004 "Youth of the Year." Last year's winner, Kewanna Daniels, went on to win the State of Mississippi "Youth of the Year" and the Southeast Region "Youth of the Year" titles.

Last year the Clubs had over 2,500 registered members ranging in age from six to eighteen, and served thousands of additional youth through various Outreach Programs in Biloxi, Gulfport, and Pass Christian. The Boys & Girls Clubs of the Gulf Coast, a United Way agency, will directly benefit from all proceeds generated from this event. Funds raised will assist in costs associated with operational, programming and outreach services for the Club's seven units and activity center.

If you would like to donate an auction item, purchase a seat, or sponsor a table at one of our sponsorship levels ranging from $500.00 to $5,000.00, please contact 228-374-2330 or visit our website at www.bggulfoast.org where you can also preview the Silent Auction.

Bridging the Gulf

Gulfside transcends racial issues for 80 years

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

In 1923, religion and society were sharply divided along racial lines. At that time the Bishop Robert E. Jones, the first black bishop and general superintendent in the Methodist Episcopal Church, had a vision for the future.

While speaking at Lakeside Assembly, a white Methodist campground in Ohio, Jones thought, why not have a meeting place for black Methodists in his own district that encompassed Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi. No such place existed at the time anywhere along the Gulf Coast.

His wife, Valena C. Jones, had grown up in the Bay St. Louis Waveland area, and was able to locate land available for purchase. Through the aid of individuals and churches, Bishop Jones raised about $4,000 to purchase 300 acres along the beach in Waveland and leased another 300 acres from the state.

Gulfside United Methodist Assembly was incorporated, at first called Gulfside Chautauqua and camp meeting ground. Next month Gulfside celebrates its 80th anniversary. At a time when bigotry and discrimination were rampant in society, Gulfside became a refuge for many, who until that time, had no where else to go.

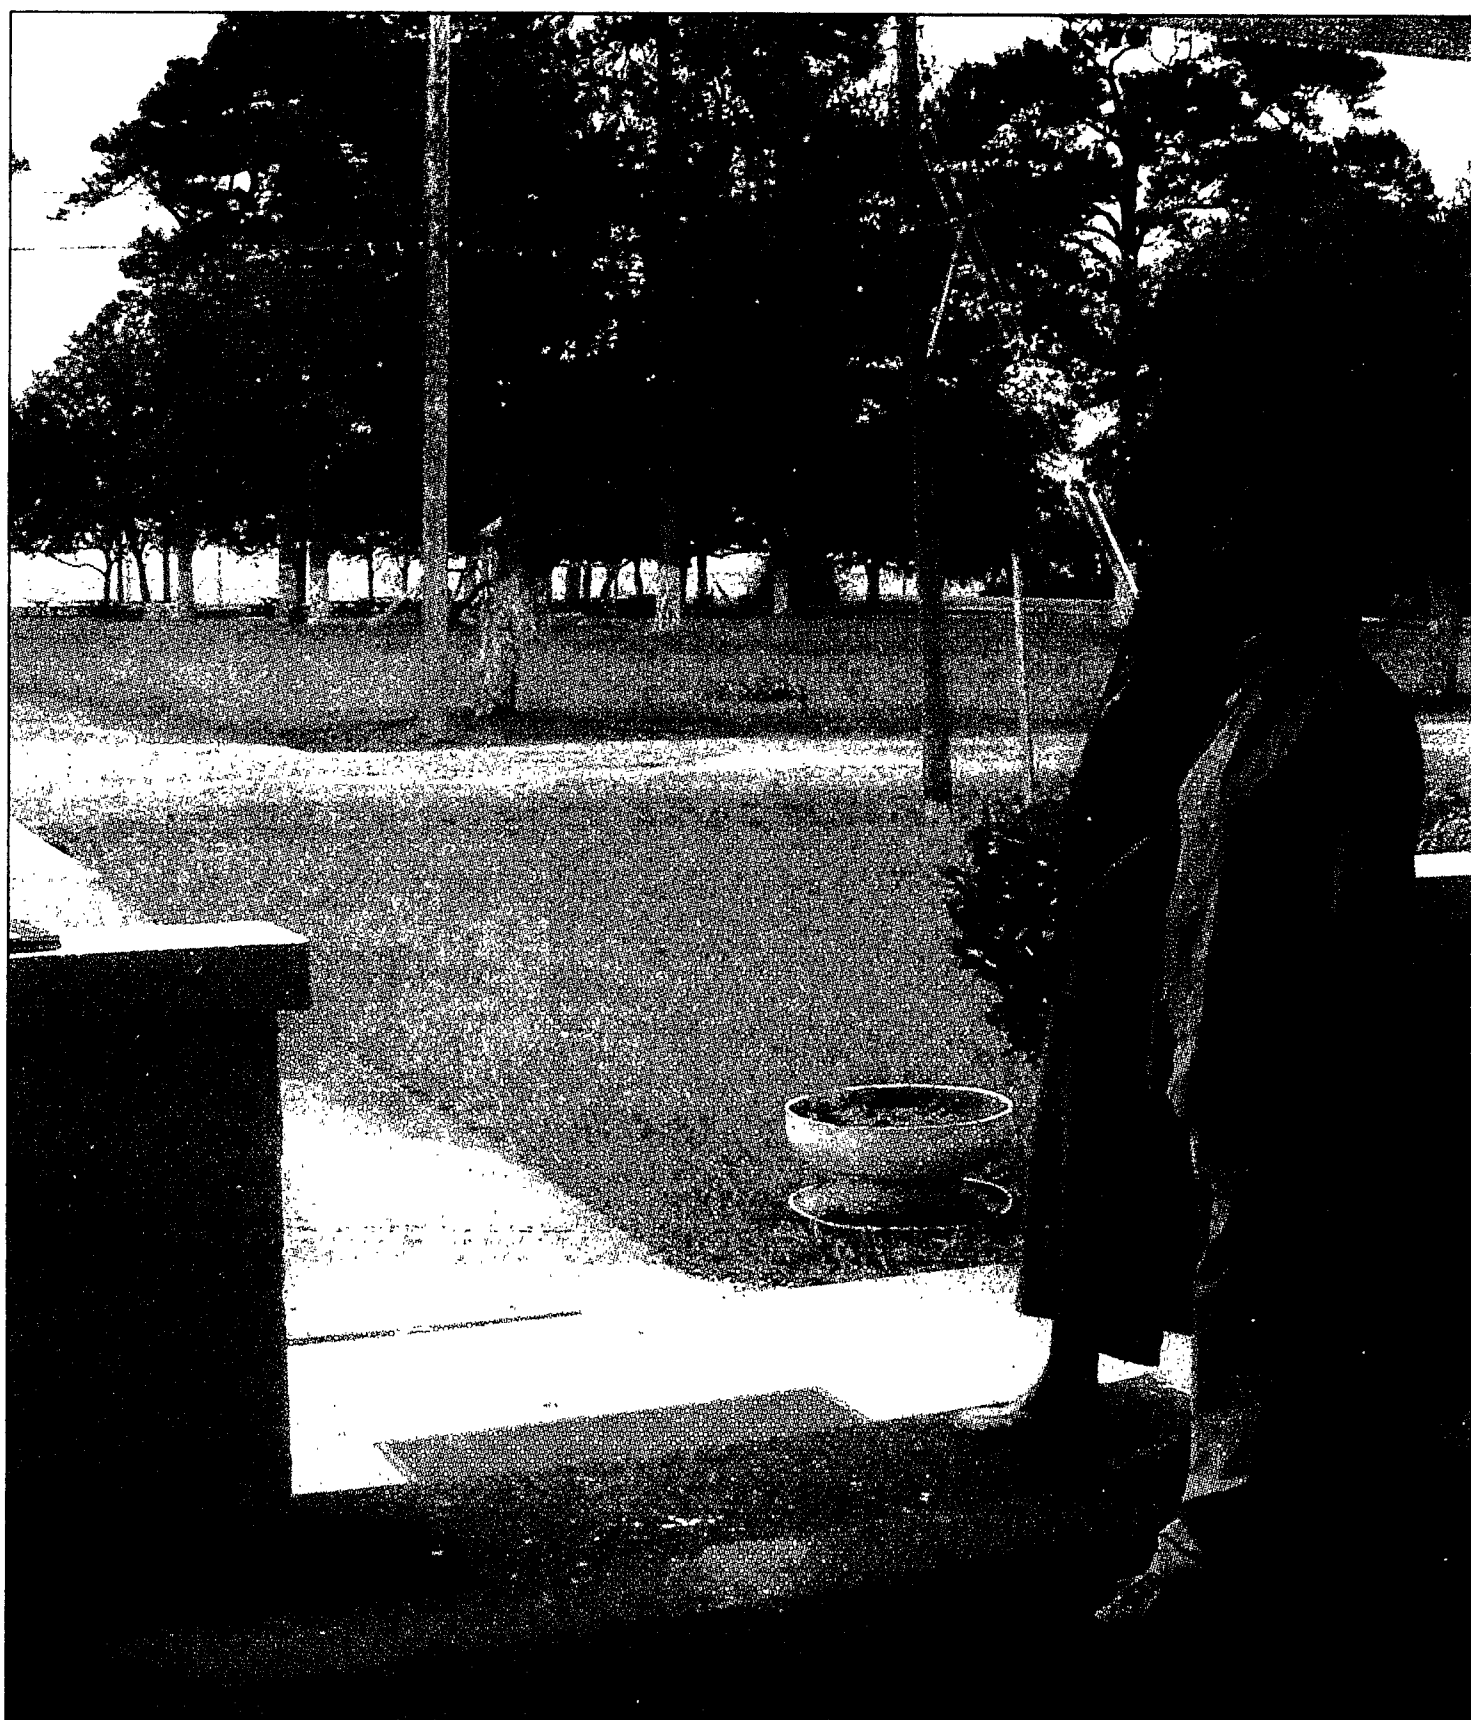

At the time rumor had it that Jones was able to purchase the land because his appearance was distinctly white, but these were only rumors, because his wife Valena, clearly of black descent, was a well known and respected educator in the area.

Jones recruited 14 other men to help with the building and organization of the retreat. They renovated the old Andrew Jackson house that stood on the property. They also added a school, The Poor Boy's School, the only public education available for blacks at the time. Later a chapel and cabins were added to the property.

In the 1940's the Andrew Jackson house mysteriously caught fire, then the 1947 hurricane took its toll on the house and other buildings on the property. In 1969 Camille devastated the retreat.

Today Gulfside is well on its way to its founders vision, as a refuge where all of God's children are welcome to gather in peace. The property holds an administration building, chapel, with a new one in the making, dormitory and meeting halls and kitchen facilities, and is shaded by majestic oak trees. A ten year plan outlines still more hopes for future development of its mission work.

For the past 15 years, executive director Marion Martin has overseen the progress at the retreat. She became director after deciding to turn a brief visit into an extended stay.

Executive director Marion Martin, left, and Genevieve Roberts, daughter of original founders Samuel G. and Rometta Roberts, relax on the porch of one of the gathering halls at Gulfside Methodist retreat in Waveland.

One of the first gatherings held at Gulfside Methodist Assembly after securing the land along the beach in Waveland in 1923. Area native Valena C. Jones, wife of founder Bishop Jones, found the property for the retreat.

"I saw so much potential here," she said. And what was to be a year's ministry became a new life for her.

And interim director Rometta Roberts saw the potential in Martin. Martin decided to stay. Roberts, the widow of one of the original 14 founders, Samuel G. Roberts, had been instrumental, along with some church groups, in keeping Gulfside afloat after the devastation of Camille.

"Her heart was here," said daughter Genevieve Roberts. "Gulfside was everything to her, that and education. She wanted to make sure we all got the opportunity to have an education, an opportunity she never had."

The Methodist jurisdiction contributed very little towards the maintenance and renovation of the retreat until the mid 1980's, Martin said, when it once again turned its attention to Gulfside.

By then, of course, the retreat had become a meeting place for blacks and whites alike and blacks of course were no longer banned from white meeting places. People still bring their children and grandchildren to the historic site, said Roberts, but the younger people find it hard to really grasp the depth and significance of the place.

They can't possibly know what it was like to live in a segregated society, she said, and the important role that Gulfside played in that society.

"It was the only place where blacks could come to meet and socialize and feel comfortable," she said.

Her own parents met at the retreat. Her father, a skilled cabinet maker, was helping with the construction and her mother would come to the school on occasion. The couple married in 1925.

Gulfside was also the only place on the coast where blacks had access to the beach, directly in front of the property. They were not allowed to walk down the beach however and had to come through the woods and down through the property to reach the water.

There was also a pier for fishing and crabbing, one of Robert's favorite pastimes when she wasn't attending a dance in the pavilion or some other activity at the retreat.

"You shuffle to the left and you shuffle to the right and you walk and you walk and you dance all night," Roberts sang as she demonstrated the line dances done in her day. The point of the dance was to get back around to the boy you really liked."

"Besides being a place where blacks could go, it was a place where teens could go when we weren't allowed to go anywhere else and meet people we would have never met and get a little glimpse of the world outside," said Roberts. "It made me curious about that world."

During its heyday Gulfside offered a place for black artists and musicians to give concerts and performances. During the civil rights movement of the 1960's activists gathered at the retreat, one of just about three meeting places that blacks could gather in the region.

Teacher training, theology summer school classes, scouting events, boys and girls camps, religious gatherings, picnics and countless other activities were also held at the retreat. People came from all over the country.

These days Gulfside still serves as a meeting place and more for all races.

Plans for the future are optimistic and filed with ideas for expanding the retreat as a recreational gathering place, an important part of history to be preserved for future generations.

For the 100th anniversary in 2023 Martin says she visualizes large moss covered oak trees and under them many people, lots of children, all gathered together in the spirit of brotherhood.

During segregation, the beach in front of Gulfside, in Waveland, was the only place on the beach where blacks were allowed. Prohibited from even walking down the beach, they had to come through the woods and down through Gulfside property to get to the water.

OLA 2003 Hull award

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Katherine Milner and Julie Reboul shared the spotlight as they were presented the 2003 Hull Award at the Crescent Athletic Club Awards Ceremony in May.

Given last year for the first time and named for Our Lady Academy's long-time teacher/coach/athletic director Harry Hull, the award is presented to a graduating senior who has set herself apart in multiple sports at OLA. The Hull Award was created to recognize OLA's "Best All-Around" athlete each year.

Both Milner and Reboul played soccer, volleyball, and softball while at OLA.

Both were varsity members of the OLA soccer team which won the State Championship in Class 1A, 2A, and 3A during the 1999-2000, 2000-2001, 2001-2002, and 2002-2003 seasons. Both were varsity members of the OLA volleyball team which won the

Facts About The BIBLE

THE COMPLAINERS

WHEN IT CAME TO COMPLAINTS, THE ORIGINAL ISRAELITES, WHOM MOSES LED OUT OF EGYPT WERE ALMOST IN A LEAGUE BY THEMSELVES! FIRST THEY THOUGHT THEY WOULD BE DESTROYED AT THE RED SEA. THEN, WHEN THE PHARAOH AND HIS HORSEMEN WERE DESTROYED, THEY COMPLAINED ABOUT LACK OF WATER--THEN IT WAS LACK OF FOOD! WHEN THE DAILY MANNA WAS PROVIDED, THEY AGITATED ABOUT THE SAMENESS OF THEIR DIET AND COMPLAINED BITTERLY ABOUT BEING TAKEN INTO THE WILDERNESS TO DIE, AND A NEVER ENDING COMPLAINT WAS ABOUT THE LACK OF WATER. THE FIRST TIME THEY DEMANDED WATER THEY WERE ONLY JUST ENTERING THE WILDERNESS.....

Fat is as fat does

Barry White dead at 58? It appeared to be incredible, unreal, but there was the seemingly needless demise of another young entertainer. We are not here to bash Barry White or Luther van Dross, another music heavyweight, who, unfortunately, share the literally deadly stigma of physical heavyweights.

But why bring this up? Because this is something which neither should be nor has to be. Except for a few rare genetic or chemical cases, being portly, corpulent, obese or whatever you want to call it is not a necessity or judge's sentence. It is simply a human choice pushed by huge urges of one's culture.

"Black men, eat more fruits and veggies! In fact, eat nine portions of fruits and veggies every day!"

That is the stern, life-crisis warning issued by the National Medical Association, a professional group of black doctors which is supporting the prevention program, African-American 9 A Day Campaign, initiated by the National Cancer Institute.

As a group, all men in this country, white and otherwise, eat only about 3.9 servings of fruits or vegetables each day. Black men, however, eat a measly 3.1 to 3.5 servings a day. On holiday occasions or on a whim at any time, black men's thoughts readily gravitate toward their favorite outdoor grill, and those thoughts have little or nothing to do with fruits and vegetables.

Ribs, especially pork, in particular baby back ribs, brisket, steaks, sausages and links of every kind, poultry, fish and even shellfish simply go with the season, the celebration or just the spur of the moment gathering.

I cannot count the funerals of relatively young black men where there was a proud claim in the obituary about the deceased's prowess at the grill and in the kitchen. Naturally, the kin stand up and confirm this, often giggling, during the words of comfort segment of the funeral celebration.

That is the kiss of death, sad to say. Kitchen or grill prowess of itself is neither here nor there in terms of healthy eating, but among men who love to cook they often spell high blood pressure or heart disease. Which is a direct result of the greasy-spoon legacy foisted upon black slaves by their masters.

After master and his family had eaten the choice parts of the steer, hog or whatever, the leftover throwaway parts were there for the slaves to devour.

As the fast-food restaurants have proven conclusively, disguise foods, even scraps, in a lot of fats, salts and sweets, and they can be Actually a terrible misnomer, the only accurate thing about the term soul food is that it will hasten your soul on to heaven.

As for earth, soul food leaves your body in a meaty and horrible condition.

The very external looks, which give the appearance of what people tend to call a "fine, distinguished" appearance, actually betray the first chinks in the armor of health: obesity, sweatiness and slow, labored or pained movement.

As they were on Father's Day, black male cooks are featured from time to time in newspapers, periodicals and on TV. Invariably, the classic look of being fine and distinguished identifies their smiling, yet effete faces. They are usually depicted as proud, satisfied chefs and picnic impresarios.

This is not to say soul food does not taste good. That is exactly the problem. It tastes sinfully good. One of the tastiest things I have ever eaten was hog crackling corn bread, which I ate twice about 50 years ago, then decided that anything tasting that good could not possibly do me any good.

Alas, it gives me no joy to write these things, but rather a twinge of sadness and loss as a pleasant cultural memory has gone sour.

What a joy to think back on days long gone by at the barbecue grill, with the tantalizing aroma of various kinds of barbecue. Add the great smell of jambalaya and gumbo laced with sausage, shrimp and oysters laying siege to one's nostrils.

So, black men are up against slave and post-slavery culinary history and the ensuing soul food culture which militates against health food regimens, except for a few preparations of mustard greens and other vegetables. That is why black men 35 and older are 1.4 times more likely than white men to die from cancer, and 1.2 times more likely to die of heart disease.

Have at it, guys! Dump the fats, salts and sugars! Go light or zero on the animal products! Eat a variety of vegetables which produce cancer-fighting phytochemicals! If you do at least the 9 A day vegetable and fruit regimen, while eschewing animal products, no prostate or any cancer will attack you.

What we are discussing here is valid for all men, of course.

However, black men must be more aware because of their unique cultural background.

Once more, "Love your neighbor as yourself" (Matthew 19:19) is the watchword of the day. Put your health and life before the great taste of food.

Creation and Evolution

Dennis J. Prutow • Box 303, Sterling, KS 67579

Science is in the forefront today. To present any theory to the world which is not backed by scientific experimentation is the height of folly. In keeping with this high view of science, a recent edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica tells us that to be truly scientific, with every theory, we must hold out the possibility of it being proved false. Without this, a theory is really not scientific. But according to this definition, one of the most commonly accepted theories should be rejected as totally unscientific. It is the theory of evolution. Is it possible to run highly controlled scientific experiments to either prove or disprove how life evolved on this planet? No, we cannot recreate the supposed conditions on planet earth millions of years ago. Not only so, most people in the scientific community rule out the possibility that the theory of evolution might be false. So this theory, the theory of evolution, is not scientific! The theory of evolution is really a philosophy or a belief system. It is something in which many scientists and other people actually do believe. To believe in evolution does have advantages. If you believe in evolution, you do not have to believe in the God of the Bible. You do not have to believe in sin. You do not have to believe in Jesus Christ, the Savior from sin. But you pay a great price. You pay the price of being unscientific. More importantly, you pay the price of dying in your sins.

Baptist Children's Village: Putting the pieces back together in MS.

Who have thousands of Mississippi's children turned to for help for over a century during their time of crisis? For the past 106 years, The Baptist Children's Village has been that place of refuge. With doors wide open, children have walked through to find provision for their physical, emotional, social and spiritual needs.

The desire of The Baptist Children's Village is to let each child know they are special. Even though their world has seemed to crash around them there is someone who cares.

There is someone willing to pick up the pieces and put their lives back together.

Bobby and Edna Warren, house parents, have dedicated their lives to serving children in need. "We felt God's call to work with hurting children that don't have anyone," said the Warrens.

When any child comes into the care of The BCV an individual plan is made for that child and their family and is reviewed regularly. The primary goal of The BCV is family reunification; however, other plans are made when that is not possible.

There are five BCV campuses around the state of Mississippi. They are located in Coldwater, Water Valley, Jackson, Brookhaven, & Wiggins with Jackson being the central headquarters. At each location there is gifted and loving staff that reaches out to build a special relationship with these children. The staff work tirelessly and sacrificially to help them through their very difficult circumstances. The children that come into the care of The Baptist Children's Village suffer from problems related to neglect, abuse, divorce, parental drug abuse, parental incarceration and many other family issues.

For more information about The Baptist Children's Village please go to www.baptistchildrensvillage.com or call 601-922-2242.

Smith is USAA National Honor Roll award winner

The United States Achievement Academy announced today that Karli Smith of Bay St. Louis, MS has been recognized for academic achievement as a United States National Honor Roll Award winner.

Karli, who attends Bay-Waveland Middle will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, which is published nationally.

"Recognizing and supporting our Youth is more important than ever before in America's history.

Certainly, United States Achievement Academy winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the United States Achievement Academy.

The USAA National Honor Roll Awards provide honor roll students with many benefits and services and is a great tribute to a student's dedication, talent, and ability.

Karli is the daughter of Larry and Teresa Giveans of Bay St. Louis, MS and Kevin and Tonja Smith of Slidell, LA. The grandparents are Jimmie Prince and Elbert Prince of Carriere, MS and Carol and Sonny Boutwell of Slidell, LA.

Mississippi Arts Commission newest grant initiative to build diversity and participation in arts in state

THE SEA COAST ECHO
From the blues to Choctaw traditions, Mississippi's culture and arts offerings are as diverse as its people. And building this diversity was the catalyst behind the newest grants initiative of the Mississippi Arts Commission.

The Take Part! Grants Program is a pilot program that seeks to develop new ways to build diverse audiences for arts activities within Mississippi communities.

The Commission was one of 13 state arts agencies that received funding from the Wallace-Reader's Digest Funds' START initiative in 2001 to develop the new program. The START initiative's intent is to inspire participating state arts agencies to adopt new, more effective programs, practices and strategies aimed at encouraging broader public participation in the arts.

During the first year (2002-03) of Mississippi's START work, the Commission worked with a consulting team from the Western States Arts Federation (WESTAF) to study how and why Mississippians participate in the arts. Results from the study were released in May. An executive summary is currently available by calling the Commission's office, 601-359-6030, or visiting the agency Web site, www.arts.state.ms.us.

The Commission's Take Part! Grant Program extends the START study to the local level by inviting Mississippi organizations to work as project partners for participation building. Based on proposals submitted this fall, the five to seven selected organizations will develop projects focusing on building connections to and participation of a specific group or groups of Mississippi residents. These groups will be within the organization's area of service but will not have previously been active participants in the organization's activities. The Commission will fund these projects through the START initiative.

Grant amounts will range from $10,000 to $30,000, depending on the project, and will not require matching funds. The projects will take place between December 2003 and May 2005. The deadline for the Letter of Intent to Apply for the Take Part! Grant Program is July 15.

For more information on Take Part!, contact Commission staff members Beth Batton or Larry Morrisey, 601-359-6030, or visit the agency Web site, www.arts.state.ms.us.

The Mississippi Arts Commission is a state agency, funded by the Mississippi legislature, the National Endowment for the Arts, the Wallace-Reader's Digest Funds, the U.S. Department of Education and other public and private sources.

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Vanna Pham, a resident of Bay St. Louis, a computer engineering major at Florida Institute of Technology, was one of just 50 university students recently named Distinguished Student Scholars at Florida Tech's Annual Convocation.

Students earning the distinction were required to have completed more than 52 credit hours with a grade point average of at least 3.8.

Florida Tech was one of just two Florida institutions of higher education listed in Peterson's Top Colleges for Science and has been named as one of America's best colleges by U.S. News & World Report for 12 consecutive years.

Williamson is National Honor Roll award winner

Stephanie Williamson

The United States Achievement Academy announced today that Stephanie Williamson of Waveland has been recognized for academic achievement as a United States National Honor Roll Award winner.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly, United States Achievement Academy winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the United States Achievement Academy.

The USAA National Honor Roll Awards provide honor roll students with many benefits and services and is a great tribute to a student's dedication talent and ability.

Stephanie is the daughter of Michelle Williamson of Waveland and Eddy Williamson of Wiggins, MS. The grandparents are Shirley Tingstrom and the late G.E. Tingstrom, Jr. of Waveland and the late Napoleon Williamson of Kokomo, MS and the late Winnie Oliver of Wiggins.

Vicki Lawrence and 'Mama' to appear at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis Aug. 7-9

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Vicki Lawrence, the multi-talented recording artist and star of television and stage, plus her alter ego, "mama," will grace the stage at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis for four days, August 7 - 9 at 9 p.m. and August 10 at 6 p.m. Tickets are $14.95, $19.95 and $24.95 and on sale at the Casino Magic Box Office by calling 1-800-5-MAGIC-5 or at any Ticketmaster location.

Lawrence's career began when during her senior year of high school, she sent Carol Burnett a letter that included a local newspaper article mentioning their resemblance and inviting Burnett to the local fire department's "Miss Fireball Contest" in which she was performing. Burnett, looking for an actress to play her kid sister on her new variety series, made arrangements to come to the event. The rest is television history. "The Carol Burnett Show" premiered in the fall of 1967; the same year Lawrence entered UCLA to study Theater Arts. She spent 11 years with Burnett, earning one Emmy Award and five Emmy nominations. She also earned a golf record in 1973 for the international hit, "The Night the Lights Went Out in Georgia."

After the Burnett show ended, Lawrence went on to star in her own TV series, "Mama's Family" with Ken Berry, Dorothy Lyman, Beverly Archer, and Allan

Kayser. The last original episode was made in January of 1990, completing five years of first-run syndication. The show still can be seen daily throughout most of the country. Since then, she has been the host of the game show, "Win, Lose or Draw," had her own talk show, "Vicki," which earned her a Daytime Emmy nomination, and was briefly the host of "Fox After Breakfast." On stage Lawrence has appeared in numerous production, including

"Carousel," "Send Me No Flowers," "No, No, Nanette," and most recently, live from the Grand Ole Opry, "Nunsense 3: The Jamboree" which aired on TNN.

Lawrence also travels all over the country speaking to women's organizations about her life and career, women's health, and being a woman in a man's world. All the while she approached everything with her characteristic sense of humor, reminding us that "Life is much too serious to be taken seriously." In 1995, Simon and Schuster published her autobiography entitled, "Vicki! The True Life Adventures of Miss Fireball."

In 1974, Lawrence married the head of CBS make-up, Al Schultz, who is both her best friend and professional partner; they have two children, Courtney, 26, and Garrett, 24. In their spare time Al and Vicki enjoy yacht racing and own a 70-foot sloop named, fittingly, "Vicki."

Don't miss Vicki Lawrence and "mama" and Casino Magic Bay St. Louis August 7 - 10. Must be 21 to attend.

Anderson players present 'Robin Hood' ... Somewhat

THE SEA COAST ECHO

The Walter Anderson Players, Jackson County Community Theatre will present their youth production of "The Somewhat True Tale of Robin Hood," a comedy by Mary Lynn Dobson, August 1 through 3.

In this production, Robin Hood, with the help of a Merry Man wannabe simply known as the Town's Girl, turns this once-simple legend into a hysterical trip through Sherwood Forest with surprises at every turn. Our charming-but-egotistical hero leads his band of familiar wood-dwellers as they battle the delectably evil Prince John and his haughty henchman, the Sheriff of Nottingham. Robin's one and only love, the Lady Marian, remains true to her champion as she assists his crusade by wishing the prince and sheriff a rash of various skin afflictions.

The show is directed by Laine Anderson, assisted by Briditte Sriver. The cast includes Anthony Shaw (Robin Hood) of Gautier, Jessi Mangum (Lady Marian) of Ocean Springs, Kyle Ballinger (Prince John) of Ocean Springs, Robert Brown (Sheriff of Nottingham) of Ocean Springs, and Kimmie Skelton (Town's Girl) of Ocean Springs. Rounding out the cast are Trey Greenway, Christian Hartley, and Molly Merchant all of Gautier; Jeremiah Ulrich, Sterling Ulrich, and Lydia Ulrich, all of Moss Point, and Allison Dickinson, Anna Jarvis, Oliver Kuttner, Aaron LeFrance, Rachel LaFrance, Beth Lyons, Alex Minton, Alex Moulton, Eric Moulton, Anthony Pavlov, Ami Sriver, Jenifer Sriver, and Jana Zaren, all of Ocean Springs. Also assisting with the production are Jeff LaFrance (set design), Rosyin Ross (costumes), MaryLee Moulton (props), Tom Van Davender (sound), and Sandra Camphor (set and lights).

"The Somewhat True Tale of Robin Hood" will be presented at the Ocean Springs Civic Center on Highway 90 on Friday and Saturday, August 1 and 2, at 8:00 p.m. and repeat on Sunday, August 3, at 2:00 p.m. Tickets will be available at the door: Adults ($10) and Students w/ID ($8). 'Various Obsessions'

THE SEA COAST ECHO

On Sunday, August 3, from 2 - 4 pm at the Jolly McCarthy Depot Gallery in Pascagoula, there will be an opening reception for a multi-media art exhibition by Susie Thomas Ranager titled "Various Obsessions".

The show will highlight recent works by Ranager and is slated to conclude August 29.

The eclectic subject matter of the exhibition will be a series of pieces featuring themes that have long fascinated the artist. Altars and Shrines, The Trees of Horn Island, Chairs, and Mummies have been explored and interpreted in acrylic paintings, monotypes, mixed media, clay and assemblage.

Ranager, a native Mississippian, has lived with her family for the past twenty-two years on the Mississippi Gulf Coast. Long active in many art organizations, she is a member of the Ocean Springs Art Association, The Singing River Art Association, The Mississippi Art Colony and The National Association for Women in the Arts. Ranager lives and maintains a studio in Ocean Springs and works as Special Curator for Ohr-O'Keefe Museums in Biloxi, MS.

The public is invited to attend the event.

Featured Lawyer hopes to get 'Lucky' with her 7th beau in movie

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

She co-stars on ABC's "According to Jim," but in her new TV movie, the game of love is played according to Kim.

Kimberly Williams-Paisley stars as the heroine of the romantic comedy "Lucky 7" Sunday, July 20, on ABC Family. Her character, Amy, follows a life plan mapped out for her in childhood by her late mother (Gail O'Grady) that includes becoming a lawyer and marrying her seventh boyfriend. The dilemma occurs when No. 6 (Brad Rowe) appears to be "the one," so she maneuvers someone else (Patrick Dempsey) into the mix to shift the sixth man to No. 7.

Happy to do relatively light material, Williams-Paisley reflects that in venturing into drama earlier in her career, "Maybe I was trying to prove I could break the mold of 'Father of the Bride' (her screen debut). For a long time, people saw me only as that wholesome girl next door, and I really wanted to prove I had acting chops. It's nice to go back to just making people laugh."

Also the co-producer of "Lucky 7," Williams-Paisley adds, "There are some very emotional scenes toward the end. The stakes are very high as this girl tries to decide between two men, and I think a lot of people will relate to her dilemma. I just got married, and even when you find the right person, it's a leap. It's exciting and it's dangerous, and it was the first time I made a decision that had nothing to do with getting my parents' OK."

Newly wed to country-music star Brad Paisley, Williams-Paisley admits that her spouse is trying to adjust to watching her in romantic scenes with other actors. "He understands the work involved, because he deals with a lot of the same stuff."

unusual for the show's carpenters to spend a lot of time building boxes to put televisions in or boxes for storage or boxes for benches, or generally, boxes.

"That's the cool thing about the show," Oosterhouse says. "You build a box, then you get to add your own touch at the end, your own flair."

Checking in With Carter Oosterhouse

Sometimes it's tough being the new kid, especially when fans look for someone else.

That's been the experience of Carter Oosterhouse (pronounce the "Ooster" like "Oh-ster"), the latest addition to the carpentry roster of The Learning Channel's redecorating hit "Trading Spaces."

He's the chief carpenter on the show's Sunday-night edition, "Trading Spaces: Family," and has joined Amy Wynn Pastor and Ty Pennington in the lineup of Saturday night "Trading Spaces" premieres.

"They're still expecting Ty or Amy Wynn," he says. "People would come around to Carpentry World, get as close as they could and say, 'Hey, where's Ty?' 'He's not here.' 'Where's Amy?' 'She's not here.' 'Who's here?' 'The new carpenter.' 'Who's that?' 'Carter.' Then they wouldn't know I was Carter, so they would just walk away."

"I've gotten a lot of that, but it's good. I don't mind being the new guy."

With 60 episodes of the original series and 60 more of "Family" in production this season, the addition of a new carpenter was a necessity.

If Oosterhouse becomes a hit with fans, it's a boost to his ultimate aspirations. "I did come out here (to Los Angeles) to act. My job is with 'Trading Spaces' and 'Trading Spaces: Family,' right now, but my ultimate goal is I aspire to be a credible actor in the business."

In the meantime, he's enjoying the wide array of tools in the "Trading Spaces" truck, even if there isn't a wide variety in the projects. It's not

Aries (March 21 - April 20)

You'll be feeling playful and young at heart, Aries. Spend some time with children or with your family's children, if you can.

Taurus (April 21 - May 20)

You'll want to curl up at home and spend time with your loved ones, so go for it, Taurus. Your family will appreciate the quality time.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)

Keep secrets to yourself - especially if they involve romance. This is not the time to talk about your feelings.

Cancer (June 21 - July 20)

Have fun with friends and family by getting them all together for an inexpensive gathering. The time together will do you all good.

Leo (July 21 - Aug. 21)

It might be time for you to rethink how you're handling things on the home front. There's probably a better way.

Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 22)

Consider how well you're treating yourself. While you might be immersed in your quest for fame, you won't get there if you're too tired.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)

Either breathe new life into old relationships or commit yourself to ending them. It may seem harsh, but you know it needs to be done.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 22)

Consult with friends about how they keep in shape - and then steal their secrets. Whatever you do, make sure you get off the couch.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 - Dec. 20)

A project you've been working on comes to fruition, especially if it is on the work front. Take credit for your hard work.

Capricorn (Dec. 21 - Jan. 19)

Make arrangements to meet up with an old friend. Take a chance and act on a wish of yours and it might just come true.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)

You'll have the urge to assert yourself, but be careful of coming across as too pushy. Loud confrontations will not win you anything in the end.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20)

Paint, dance or sing your heart out. No talent for any of these? Be sure to flex your creative muscle somehow - but keep it all to yourself.

'The Restaurant' dishes up a soup opera of reality TV

By Jacqueline Cutler
© Zap2it

In a town where trends are municipal currency and celebrity chefs warrant serious media coverage, the buzz surrounding Rocco's, a new Italian restaurant in Manhattan's Flatiron District, is about more than good eats.

It is unlikely that the posing and practiced laughter are all to impress Union Pacific chef and restaurateur Rocco DiSpirito, despite how handsome, charming and successful he is.

No, the women wearing dresses held up with tape and ambition, the host singing opera, the impossibly good looking bartenders, the patrons and the staff are all onto the fact that this could be their big chance. Finally, they will be on national television, even if it is while carrying or eating a plate of pasta, when NBC premieres the unscripted "The Restaurant" Sunday, July 20.

Once "Six Feet Under" proved a funeral home could be fascinating, the possibilities for TV series settings became endless. Throw in the public's appetite for watching average people doing mundane things - and it doesn't get much more mundane than eating dinner - and "The Restaurant" does not seem so preposterous.

"There's only one thing that matters on every TV show," says Mark Burnett, an executive producer and the brains behind "Survivor." "And that is do the characters transport you on a journey of discovery and enjoyment?"

This remains to be seen, as no tape was available at press time. An important aspect is in place: The show is devised to yield profits. In addition to Burnett, the other producers, Ben Silverman and Robert Riesenber, came up with a business plan that harkens back to the days of corporate sponsorship of shows. "We financed it and sold it to our sponsors," Riesenber says. In a barter deal, his company and NBC split the profits, he says.

"I was a waiter for eight years," Riesenber says of his days in the Catskills. "Every time you open the doors to the restaurant, it's like opening a Broadway show. You never know what will happen. There's a lot of conflict, romance and a lot of relationship building and tearing down."

The six one-hour episodes follow the creation of the restaurant, in what may well be a record five weeks, to its first few weeks in business. Hundreds of hours of tape have been shot, including some showing the staff during their off hours. No diners get voted out of the restaurant, and no one wins money for eating the most meatballs.

"The next step in unscripted dramatic television is to remove the contest and voting and prize money and to make a show in a venue," Burnett says. "A restaurant is clearly the perfect venue because it is every night theater, and metaphorically, it is a pressure cooker. There are two worlds in a restaurant. It's like the Titanic. There are people shoveling coal underneath and white gloves serving."

Instead of white gloves, the staff wears green shirts, black skirts or pants, and rhinestone belt buckles that spell out "Mama," "Romeo" and "Queens." A sign warns patrons that by entering, they are consenting "to the use of their image in the series in any and all media throughout the universe in perpetuity."

Roughly two dozen cameras are throughout the restaurant (thankfully, none in the bathrooms), and a mobile crew zooms in on rambunctious diners. Producer Roy Bank, taping the action on a Friday night, says, "It's the only show on television that if you take away the show, the environment still exists in the form it's in."

Rocco DiSpirito debated doing NBC's new unscripted Sunday series "The Restaurant": "I asked myself: 'Do you believe you are a good guy?' Yes, I do," he says, "and no editing can change who I am."

Rocco's form is just fine, the setting is lovely and the food is terrific. "I had wanted to open Rocco's for about five years," DiSpirito says. "It's just silly to continue to open restaurants and not tap into this food and conviviality that I've had all my life."

"It is not lost on me that this could be a marketing opportunity," he says. "I have no say on what they put in (the show). They run a TV show and own it, and I run the business and own it."

Despite the TV show, DiSpirito did not budge on his requirements for staff: "happy, cultural people," he says. Those who don't understand the value of hard work answer to the big boss: Rocco's mother, Nicolina DiSpirito.

Bateman set for new Fox sitcom this fall

By Taylor Michaels
© Zap2it

Q I recently saw Jason Bateman on a "Twilight Zone" episode. Wasn't he on a sitcom with Valerie Harper and Josh Taylor? -Donna in Baltimore.

A: Yes, and I'm not surprised that you can't remember the name of it. At 17, Bateman played David Hogan, the son of Valerie and Michael Hogan (Harper, Taylor), when the NBC sitcom "Valerie" premiered in 1986.

Harper left the show in the fall of 1987 following a highly publicized dispute with the producers, at which point the show's title was changed to "Valerie's Family," then later to "The Hogan Family," a title that stuck until the series ended in 1991.

Now 34, Bateman returns to series television this fall in "Arrested Development," a decidedly edgy and very funny Fox sitcom in which he heads a cast that also includes Portia de Rossi, David Cross and Jessica Walter. And in case you haven't heard, Bateman married singer-songwriter Paul Anka's daughter, Amanda, in 2001.

Jason Bateman

Q In the TV series "The Incredible Hulk," Bill Bixby's character was named Dr. David Banner, yet in the new movie, the doctor's name is Bruce Banner. Why the different names? -Paul "Funn" Dunn, Bloomington, Ill.

A: The recent DVD release of the pilot episode for the Bixby series includes a commentary track in which Kenneth Johnson, who wrote and directed that first episode, gives a detailed explanation. Here's what it boils down to as far as your question goes:

When he was first approached about doing the TV series, Johnson was turned off by the comic book origins of the project and wanted to come up with something more sophisticated. Right off the bat, he felt the alliterative name Marvel Comics writer Stan Lee had given the character, "Bruce Banner," smacked of the comic book world. Johnson, who liked to work the names of friends and family members into his scripts, rechristened the main character David, his own son's name.

At the end of the pilot, however, Banner is presumed to have been killed in an explosion. In a tip of the hat to Stan Lee, we see that his gravestone reads: "David Bruce Banner."

For his new feature adaptation, director Ang Lee simply reverted to the character's original name.

A&E's new 'MI-5' spy drama is brisk, intelligent adult fare

By John Crook
© Zap2it

You won't find grenade-launching Aston Martins, speeding hydrofoils or decapitating bowler hats in A&E Network's new spy series "MI-5," but star Matthew Macfadyen says that's fine with him.

"I like the James Bond stuff, but I lean more toward the John le Carre Cold War spy stories, with the intrigue and the mind games and the rain and the trench coats," says the rising young Scottish actor, who plays senior anti-terrorism agent Tom Quinn in the adult drama. "MI-5" begins an eight-episode run on Tuesday, July 22.

"I think 'MI-5' is a nice blend of the two styles, actually, because it does glamorize the work to a degree but not to the ridiculous degree of some of the Bond films, I hope," Macfadyen adds.

Like the Central Intelligence Agency in America, MI5 is the national security agency for the United Kingdom (unlike the A&E series title, the real-life agency does not hyphenate its name). The TV series follows the often hair-raising assignments doled out to Tom and his colleagues in Section B, a small group of top-flight agents in the counterterrorism division.

They include: resourceful yet still untried Zoe Reynolds (Keeley Hawes, "Tipping the Velvet"); hot-shot technical genius Danny Hunter (David Oyelowo); cranky head of operations Harry Pearce (Peter Firth, "Equus"); blunt, morally pragmatic senior case officer Tessa Phillips (Jenny Agutter, "The Buccaneers"); and Jools Siviter (Hugh Laurie, "Jeeves and Wooster").

Tom's arrogant nemesis at sister department MI-6.

"'MI-5' looks at both the real events (these characters) have to cope with, and also at the impact on their personal and emotional lives of living in sort of a gray world, where they can't tell their loved ones or their friends what they do," producer Simon Crawford Collins explains.

"They're not necessarily always sure what the person at the next desk is working on and what information they've got and who they should talk to," Crawford Collins adds. "It's a very gray and murky world, and it's also very morally ambiguous. The pressures on individuals are huge."

Temperamentally, Tom is well-suited to his job, exhibiting almost supernatural cool in the face of peril. That's a quality his real-life alter ego doesn't share in the least.

"I wish I were more like Tom in that respect, but the truth is, I tend to panic and then go into a kind of catatonic stupor," Macfadyen laughs. "In other respects, though, I found it pretty easy to understand him. An actor always brings bits of himself to a role, and Tom isn't all that big a leap from myself."

If his professional career is well in hand, however, Tom's personal life is less orderly. When we first meet him, Tom has just fallen in love with restaurant owner Ellie Simm (Esther Hall), a single mother he met while on surveillance. As they start dating, Ellie knows Tom only by his code name, Matthew Archer. And she has no clue whatsoever about his true line of work.

Those early scenes with Ellie posed some comically confusing moments for Macfadyen, he recalls, especially in a dinner party scene in which he meets some of Ellie's friends.

"During the scene, one guy turns to me and asks, 'So, Matthew, what do you do?'" the actor says. "That's my real name, of course, and it completely threw me. I was Matthew playing Tom playing Matthew. I couldn't get my head around it at all!"

Tom's willingness to share his secret life with Ellie and, even more ill-advisedly, her young daughter Maisie (Heather Cave) may ring a little falsely as the plot contrivance that it is, but Macfadyen says the issue of when to tell loved ones the truth is a thorny decision every agent has to wrestle with.

"One real agent said he told his wife on their wedding night," he says. "There's just the added complication that your job could put your loved ones at risk. It must be a complete nightmare for real spies."

Of course, most "MI-5" viewers probably will be tuning in more for the suspenseful espionage story lines than any kind of romantic angst, and the A&E series doesn't stint on action.

"Every episode is full of action, but real-life MI5 operatives are playing the long game," Macfadyen explains. "It can take six months or more to recruit an agent you think is ripe for 'turning.'"

Hawes, the winsome beauty who played Desdemona in a recent updated PBS adaptation of Shakespeare's "Othello," says she is getting a kick out of exploring "action babe" territory as Tom's rookie colleague, Zoe.

"But I wasn't quite as taken with the guns as were Matthew and David," she adds. "They were charging down corridors and rolling around on the floor like little boys."

"I actually got to run around Trafalgar Square with a gun," says Oyelowo, his excitement backing up Hawes' assessment of her two co-stars. "It's classic playground stuff: muttering into your imaginary lapel microphone or wearing a headset pretending you're on surveillance. I'm amazed I'm getting paid for it!"

A&E will air an encore telecast of each Tuesday episode on the following Saturday.

'Defending Our Kids' sends a message parents need

By Jacqueline Cutler

© Zap2it

Supermom takes over when a horrified Julie realizes that her 13-year-old daughter is meeting an adult man with whom she e-mails.

Perhaps leaping tall buildings in a single bound is out, but she uses tools available to suburban moms: the Internet, her minivan and common sense. In the best scene in Lifetime's "Defending Our Kids: The Julie Posey Story" Monday, July 21, Julie drives around a park, searching for her girl.

Usually, if viewers want to see drivers, they watch NASCAR, but Annie Potts ("Any Day Now"), who portrays Julie Posey, infuses this scene with such tension that anyone could relate to the terror this mom feels.

"The woman is a heroine," Potts says of Posey, who pretends to be a teen online to help nab pedophiles. "And she's a very relatable every woman. You think you are just a little person who could not be an implement of change. But, in fact, everyone is capable of being an implement of change."

The real Posey, a 39-year-old Kansas housewife, makes a difference. This movie is her story - sort of -

if one ignores details such as her daughter never had that encounter.

"For dramatic purposes, we needed that to happen," Potts says. "When it's based on a true story, they should capitalize the 'based on.'"

The important message - that children are at danger because computer-savvy pedophiles prey on them - gets through.

The movie opens in suburban Denver with Posey and her husband, Jerry (Carl Marotte), giving their daughter, Kristyn (Ksenia Solo), a computer for her 13th birthday. Soon, Kristyn is in chat sessions until the wee hours. Only because her best friend needs something from Kristyn's computer does Julie discover her daughter's plight.

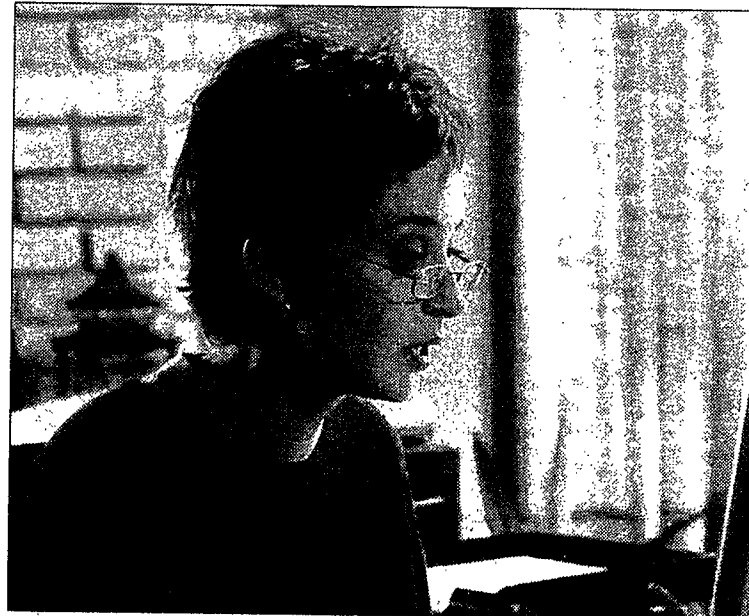

The parents move the computer to the living room and set up blocks. Julie reports the incident to the police, and she winds up volunteering to help catch pedophiles who use chat rooms as ways to meet children. The movie shows the reality that these are not grubby little men. One profiled in the movie is a very handsome piano teacher, another is a successful architect. All want to have sex with girls.

Julie goes on stings with police officer Mike Harris (Michael O'Keefe, "The Pledge"), scaring herself in the process. Sometimes, she helps law enforcement but, other times, she is a hindrance. One sharp attorney paints Julie as a vindictive vigilante, dredging up her past as a sexual victim.

Posey really was molested by a neighbor, and later raped by a man who initially served only three months. Years later, Posey was asked to testify against him after he raped a girl and this time, he received 25 years. "I was starting to feel a lot better about life," she says. She volunteered then, and has been involved in dozens of stings.

"This happens every day," Posey says of predators finding unwary kids online. "Kids are curious and this will happen."

She and Potts say they hope the movie warns parents about ways to prevent their children from becoming victims. "Keep the computer in a common area," Posey says. "Talk to your kids about who their online buddies are. Talk to them about what to do if someone propositions them. Tell them to tell an adult if anything makes them uncomfortable."

Annie Potts stars as Julie Posey, a mother who pretends to be a young girl and participates in police stings on pedophiles after discovering her teenage daughter is involved on the Internet with an adult man, in "Defending Our Kids: The Julie Posey Story," premiering Monday on Lifetime.

Canine athlete bows out at 2003 Great Outdoor Games

By George Dickie
 © Zap2it

This year's Great Outdoor Games will be a farewell of sorts to one of its greatest athletes.

Super Sue, a female yellow Labrador retriever who won a gold medal in the retriever trials in 2001 and a silver in the same competition last year, turns 12 this year and is retiring.

Her final GOG performance can be seen when the fourth annual games air Sunday through Saturday, July 20-26, on ESPN and ESPN2.

The games took place July 10-13 at locations in Reno, Nev., and Lake Tahoe, Calif., and encompass competitions in the sporting dog, fishing, target and timber categories.

Sue's forte, the retriever trials, is a test of a dog's overall hunting ability, as well as its bond with its handler. Led by the handler's hand and audio signals, the dog must negotiate a course that includes grass, water and meadows - as well as plenty of distractions - to retrieve a launched decoy bird. The dog that retrieves the object with the fewest amount of infractions is crowned champion.

Jerry Day, Super Sue's handler and owner, feels his dog is probably in better shape than when she first retired in 2000, but with age and the onset of arthritis, he feels it's time to call it a career, at least when it comes to the Great Outdoor Games. "With her at her age," Day says, "there are a lot of dogs that are three or four years younger than are kind of in their prime. We're just proud to be there this year. When we step up on the podium, we're going to give it all we got and let the chips fall where they may. We're not giving up, but we have to face the facts. It's like me running a race. I mean, the older you get, the slower you get."

In her prime - which typically for a Lab in such competitions is 5-8 years old - Super Sue held several different titles, including Hunting Retriever Champion, Field Champion, Master Hunter and Master Hunting Retriever, among others. She'll still compete in less rigorous hunt-test events, but the bulk of her existence will consist of life as a house pet at Day's home in Noonan, Ga. "She's in the house and out," Day says. "She is more of a house dog; she stays in the house more than she stays out. But I'm actually going to continue to run some HRC (Hunting Retriever Club) hunt tests with her because all of that is pretty short - and a big portion of it is water, because a lot of it is duck hunting. I mean, there's some pure land, but it's usually relatively short. And for her health, we will continue to keep her in fairly good shape. For a 12-year-old, she's in pretty darn good shape."

Day attributes much of Super Sue's success to the bond between handler and dog. "There are five amateurs running in the Great Outdoor Games, and seven professionals. Now, the professional trainer, if he's got 10 dogs he's training or 24, whatever, and he stands over those dogs every day, he has to split up his time. He, from a professional standpoint, should be able to read these dogs. And he stands over a lot of dogs and he should have his handling techniques down to a professional level.

"However, I think that a good amateur with a good dog that is connected and bonded and they work together to the point that they know each other's moods, feelings, traits, tone of voice, and all of that ... can outdo a professional."

"Now, you take a pro, though, (who) has a personal dog that he's connected with. ... Then, you've got the best of both worlds coming together, and that pro and that dog is hard to beat. So to me, I think that's probably the No. 1 most important thing in running these dogs."

While the 2003 Games may be Super Sue's swan song, they most likely won't be for Day, who has an offspring from Sue named Sue Says Just Do It (nickname: Nike) waiting in the wings. "I try to look for the dog that's got that few extra brain cells," Day says. "It makes a difference. I mean, there are a lot of nice dogs out there. Sue is my once-in-a-lifetime dog. I've got a puppy ... and I'm stepping out on a limb in saying that we'll be there with her next year."

"Nike is coming into her own. She'll be 6 years old in the spring. She's had more professional training than Sue, but I've got her now and I'm running her and we're getting connected like Sue and I."

"St. Louis Cardinals at Los Angeles Dodgers" Sunday, July 20 (ESPN, 8 p.m. ET): He was on the All-Star team, but aside from that, the St. Louis Cardinals' Albert Pujols is just beginning to receive the recognition he deserves. Triple Crown-like stats tend to generate more ink, and as the Cards get set to take on the Dodgers tonight, Pujols sits at or near the top of the NL's major offensive categories. In each of his first two seasons, Pujols became the first player ever to bat at least .300 with 30 HRs, 100 RBIs and 100 runs scored. "Senior British Open, First Round" Thursday, July 24 (TNT, 11 a.m. ET): The Senior British Open hosts a historic reunion when the European Senior Tour's richest tournament begins today from Turnberry, Scotland. Jack Nicklaus and Tom Watson will be among the legends teeing off at the Westin Turnberry Resort, the site of their epic final-round duel in the 1977 British Open won by Watson. Other past champions hoping to wrestle the title from Japan's Noboru Sugai are Andy North, Tom Kite, Gary Player and Tony Jacklin.

"Boxing" Saturday, July 26 (HBO, 9:45 p.m. ET): Fernando Vargas attempts to jab his way back into boxing's upper echelon with what should amount to an ego-boosting bout tonight against Fitz Vanderpool, from Olympic Arena in Los Angeles. It's taken Vargas (22-2, 20 KOs) 10 months to recover from his bloody loss to Oscar De La Hoya when De La Hoya unified the super welterweight titles. The Trinidad-born Vanderpool (24-4-4, 13 KOs) shouldn't be much of a match for a motivated Vargas.

Most people who eat out are more concerned with having a good meal than with learning what goes on behind the scenes. Nevertheless, the premiere of this unscripted series from producer Mark Burnett ("Survivor") introduces New York chef Rocco DiSpirito and his dream of opening and operating a stylish eatery he can call his own. The show also follows the lives and careers of other employees, as well as their encounters with customers.

All My Children

Tormented by visions of Michael, Bianca was rescued by David as she almost fell off the roof of the clinic. As Erica tried to get Bianca to reveal what's bothering her, Bianca was stunned when the real Michael arrived at Erica's. David blamed himself for the tragedies in his life and shocked Anna by declaring that their relationship is over. Jack made it clear to Mary that they have no chance of a future together, but she vowed that he and Greenlee need to know the truth about their connection and wrote a letter to Jack revealing everything. Coming: Lena intends to unearth Bianca's secret.

As the World Turns

Gordo was found dead in the wheelchair, an apparently suicide. Meanwhile, Rick wasn't happy when Bob came out of his coma and attempted to give him a fatal injection before Bob could name him as the killer. Dusty and Paul had a face-off about Rose, who responded to Dusty's care and concern, and they made love. Paul intended to get the kids for himself and told Jennifer to meet him. Coming: Jessica and Marshall become opponents.

Bold and Beautiful

Julie, Deacon's lawyer, informed him that he has little chance of winning a custody battle with Brooke over Hope, but has a much better shot with little Eric because he is the surviving biological parent. Armed with that information, Deacon took Eric for a sleep-over. An inquisitive Brooke went to Deacon's place and found Macy with little Eric. Darla begged Sally to give her another chance, unaware that things are falling apart at Spectra without her. Coming: Brooke speculates about Macy's agenda.

Days of Our Lives

Larry fired at Victor, but Brady was able to save his grandfather's life. Larry fled, crashing his car into a guardrail that led to a steep ravine. Lucas expressed some nasty words when Sami accepted a dinner date with Tony, while, despite herself, Sami fantasized about Lucas expressing love for her. Tony planned to sell Club Echelon to make sure Cassie loses her job. Rex suffered from violent headaches, which Mimi believed stemmed from him not telling the truth about his connection to Kate and Roman. Coming: Will Belle play spy again and defy Marlena?

General Hospital

Michael tried in vain to convince Sonny that he had seen Ric kidnap Carly. Meanwhile, Elizabeth, recovering from a stroke, remembered seeing Carly in the panic room and told the police that Ric kidnapped Carly. Alexis removed her disguise and confessed to murdering Alcazar in order to save Cameron. After Emily learned that she has to stop chemotherapy because of its effect on her immune system, Zander planned to step aside and let Nikolas help Emily with her recovery. Coming: Carly attempts to escape.

Guiding Light

Cassie found herself alone on a rooftop with Mitch Hendon, who was facing arrest for his wife's murder. Gus remained unconvinced that there's only one killer, as Eden continued to deny any involvement with the crimes. Alexandra was horrified by Jeffrey's plans to re-examine the stalker trial. Coming: Shayne's career causes more complications.

One Life to Live

Walker stunned Blair and Dorian when he stated that he killed Mitch because he deserved to die. However, after Jessica learned that Mitch died from a blow to the head, not poison, she told Antonio that she killed Mitch. Walker later told Starr that Todd asked him to come to Llanview to keep an eye on her and Jack. As Jen showed Hank and Nora her video of Troy, Troy pretended to be Colin and asked one of Colin's old friends to commit Lindsay to his insane asylum. Coming: Antonio puts his job on the line.

Passions

Miguel blamed himself as Kay's dangerous labor threatened to take her life as well as the baby's. Ivy blamed Grace for Kay's predicament and told Sam that she feels Grace is a bad mother. When Sheridan refused to make a video saying she's in Paris, Beth and Charlie set out to bury her alive, just as Luis showed up at the house. Simone vowed revenge against her sister as Whitney, Chad and Fox prepared to fly to L.A. Coming: Kay undergoes an emergency delivery.

Port Charles

Kevin gave Lucy divorce papers but became angry when she told him to stay away from her and Christina. Livvie and Alison temporarily switched personalities after Jamal wished that they could see what it's like to be in Brittany decided to strip at the club and was surprised to realize that she enjoyed it. As Nick realized that Nikki is at the root of his problems with Sharon, Nikki complained to Jack that Sharon is after both Victor and Nick. Michael remained silent when Detective Weber encouraged him to confess any information he has concerning Chris and her connection to Lake Michigan. Victor called in his loan from Jabot. Coming: Nikki and Sharon's feud impacts the family.

Soap Talk

Ted King plays the Alcazar flip side

By Candace Havens
© Zap2it

When the call came asking Ted King to return to ABC's "General Hospital," no one was more surprised than he was. The character he played on the show, Luis Alcazar, had been murdered. But, in true soap opera fashion, it turns out Luis has a twin named Lorenzo.

"I was in the process of moving back to New York," King says. "I knew the character was dead, and I thought that was the end of it. Usually, when they kill off your character, that's pretty much it."

"They called and asked if I wanted to come back, and I was thrilled. This is a great place to work."

On Monday, July 21, Lorenzo kidnaps enemy Sonny Corinthos' (Maurice Benard) wife, Carly (Tamara Braun). Viewers should expect to get more insight into Lorenzo.

"Lorenzo is more reluctant to jump into the personal aspects of the people he deals with in Port Charles. He's there strictly to expand his drug-running territory. His thought process and motivation for doing things is different than his brother," King says.

"Luis did it because of his love for Brenda. Lorenzo does it because that's what's expected from his family. I think he does this reluctantly, but this is what they want him to do."

In other news: Mya, who co-starred in "Chicago" will appear as herself in NBC's "Passions" Thursday, July 24. She'll sing her new single, "My Love Is Like ... Wo," from her upcoming album, "Moodring."

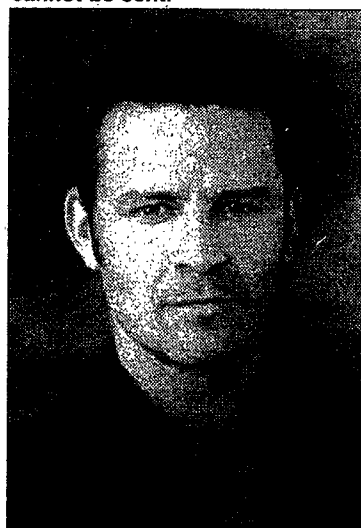

Her appearance is part of the Hot L.A. Passions arc the show is doing. She'll be part of a story line where several of the younger characters take a trip to Los Angeles and enjoy a night at a romantic beach club where Mya performs.

Eva Tamargo Lemus, who plays Pilar Lopez Fitzgerald on "Passions," is taking on a new role. She'll be the host of the new romance reality show "La Cenicenta" on Telemundo.

Dear Candace: What is Josh Duhamel, who played Leo on "All My Children," doing now? -Sabrina, Mount Vernon, Ill.

Dear Reader: Duhamel stars in the new NBC series "Las Vegas," which premieres this fall. He plays a hotel security agent who is always in trouble.

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC 8 Simple Rules for Dating My Teen-age Daughter

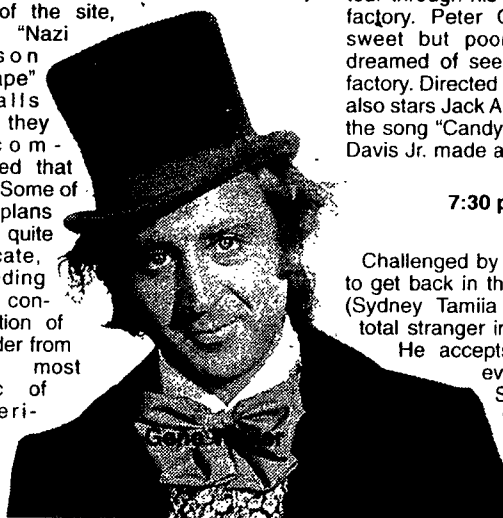

"Bake Sale" ties into an actual campaign initiated to end childhood hunger in the United States. Kerry and Rory (Amy Davidson, Martin Spanjers) make cookies for a related bake sale just as Bridget (Kaley Cuoco) gets a school assignment to care for a "baby," which actually is a sack of flour. The "child" seems to be on a diet as Kerry and Rory secretly make use of it for their baking purposes.

7 p.m. on 38-WB Gilmore Girls

Lorelai (Lauren Graham) asks Luke (Scott Patterson) for a crash course in fishing, since Alex (Billy Burke) wants her to join him on a rod-and-reel date, in "Lorelai Out of Water." Luke has his own romantic aims, directed toward a lawyer (Tricia O'Kelley), and Lane (Keiko Agena) wants to go to the prom with Dave (Adam Brody). Paris (Liza Weil) schemes to get Rory (Alexis Bledel) impeached at school.

7 p.m. on 19-PBS Nova

Anyone who knows World War II history is familiar with Colditz, an East German prison that was virtually escape-proof. However, more than 300 captives were able to make their way out of the site, and "Nazi Prison Escape" recalls how they accomplished that feat. Some of the plans were quite intricate, including the construction of a glider from the most basic of materials.

7 p.m. on FAM Movie: Willy Wonka & the Chocolate Factory

Gene Wilder stars in this colorful 1971 film as an eccentric candymaker who takes five contest winners on a tour through his mysterious chocolate factory. Peter Ostrum portrays the sweet but poor Charlie, who has dreamed of seeing the inside of the factory. Directed by Mel Stuart, the film also stars Jack Albertson. It introduced the song "Candy Man," which Sammy Davis Jr. made a hit.

7:30 p.m. on 54-UPN Abby

Challenged by Jo (Tangie Ambrose) to get back in the dating game, Abby (Sydney Tamiia Poitier) asks out a total stranger in "Abby's First Date." He accepts, and the resulting evening is uneventful. Still, Abby is bothered when he doesn't call her for a second date. A publicity campaign to promote Max (Randy J. Goodwin) is surprisingly successful.

8 p.m. on 38-WB Smallville

A telekinetic teen (guest star Adam Brody) seeks supernatural revenge for losing the use of his hands in "Crush." Injured in a hit-and-run accident, he applies his mind power to getting even with those he deems responsible — including Clark (Tom Welling). Lana (Kristin Kreuk) acknowledges her deepening feelings for Clark and ponders whether she has a future with Whitney (Eric Johnson).

8 p.m. on 19-PBS Secrets of the Dead

A unique explosive developed by the Allies during World War II to impede the Nazis is recalled in "Bombing Nazi Dams." The weapon was a forerunner of the so-called "smart" bomb, navigating water to secure itself to its target — and remain intact until a predetermined depth was reached. Pilots from Britain and other countries took calculated risks by transporting the devices behind enemy lines at night.

9 p.m. on 19-PBS P.O.V.

A survivor of the Cambodian genocide traced in the book and movie "The Killing Fields" is profiled in the new documentary "The Flute Player." Most of Arn Chorn-Pond's relatives were killed in the overthrow by the Khmer Rouge, but Arn's flute skills kept him alive in a labor camp. He eventually escaped and made his way to the United States, drawing the attention of everyone from then-Attorney General Janet Reno to Bruce Springsteen.

11:30 p.m. on 25-FOX Abby

Challenged by Jo (Tangie Ambrose) to get back in the dating game, Abby (Sydney Tamiia Poitier) asks out a total stranger in "Abby's First Date." He accepts, and the resulting evening is uneventful. Still, Abby is bothered when he doesn't call her for a second date.

That '70s Show

Eric (Topher Grace) seeks a new job after Red (Kurtwood Smith) threatens to withhold college money if he won't end his engagement to Donna (Laura Prepon) in "Hey, Hey, What Can I Do?" Hyde (Danny Masterson) gets an unexpected job offer, and Kelso (Ash-ton Kutcher) decides on a career in law enforcement.

7 p.m. on 38-WB

Boarding House: North Shore

The unscripted series catches its last wave of the season with this finale, as Danny tries to parlay his solid performance in the previous competition into another success against roommate Miles and world-ranked surfer Rob Machado. Sunny also faces a big challenge against Jake "The Snake" Paterson. The hour concludes with an update on what the surfers have been up to since the series ended production.

7 p.m. on 19-PBS

National Geographic

Especially legendary during the tenure of J. Edgar Hoover, the Federal Bureau of Investigation is striving to regain that status as it faces its biggest challenge, redefining itself in the face of domestic terrorism threats. Narrated by actor Dennis Haysbert ("24"), the new special "The FBI" takes a rare behind-the-scenes look at the organization's operations.

8 p.m. on 38-WB

Pepsi Smash

Continuing to show she can make it on her own without Destiny's Child, Beyonce Knowles hardly has been shy about making TV appearances, what with a new album ("Dangerously in Love") and single ("Crazy in Love") to promote. She's the star attraction in the second episode of this summer music series.

8 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order

Relationships among relatives take lethal turns, much to the astonishment of police detectives Briscoe and Green (Jerry Orbach, Jesse L. Martin), in "Couples." One woman is investigated for mowing down her less-than-loyal husband with a car, while another woman's brothers become suspects in her murder.

8 p.m. on 19-PBS

The Six Wives of Henry VIII

The concluding half of the new miniseries about the British monarch's spouses begins with "Jane Seymour and Anne of Cleves," detailing how Jane held out from becoming Henry's mistress, clearly intending to be much more to him. After her death, he married Anne, whom he first saw in a portrait. Then, "Catherine Howard and Catherine Parr" recalls wife seven — who lost her head — and his final wife, who was buried as Henry's widow.

8 p.m. on 54-UPN

The Twilight Zone

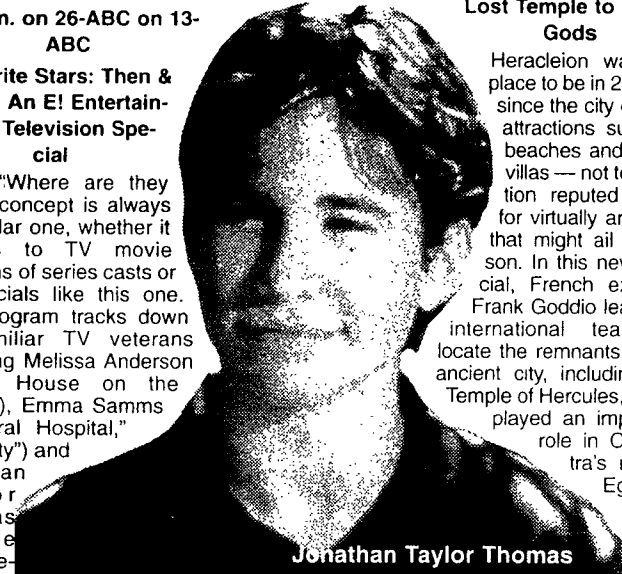

Gil Bellows continued to appear on "Ally McBeal" even after his character, Billy, had died. He's in a similar situation as he guest stars in "Homecoming," which casts him as a slain soldier still determined to patch things up with his son (Penn Badgley, "Do Over").

9 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Favorite Stars: Then & Now... An E! Entertainment Television Special

The "Where are they now?" concept is always a popular one, whether it applies to TV movie reunions of series casts or to specials like this one. The program tracks down still-familiar TV veterans including Melissa Anderson ("Little House on the Prairie"), Emma Samms ("General Hospital," "Dynasty") and Jonathan Taylor Thomas ("Home Improvement").

Lost Temple to the Gods

Heracleion was the place to be in 20 B.C., since the city offered attractions such as beaches and lavish villas — not to mention reputed cures for virtually anything that might ail a person. In this new special, French explorer Frank Goddio leads an international team to locate the remnants of the ancient city, including the Temple of Hercules, which played an important role in Cleopatra's rule of Egypt.

MLB Baseball

The Arizona Diamondbacks are doing their best Yogi Berra impersonations lately. Proving once again that, indeed, it's never over 'til it's over, Arizona climbed from the depths of the NL West — they were 10 out of first, at one point — into contention, thanks to the leadership of vets like Luis Gonzalez and some notable rookie contributions.

Movie: Road Trip

Several Ithaca, N.Y., college students set out on a trek that proves unforgettable — for many reasons — in this 2000 comedy. Their mission is to retrieve a videotape wrongly sent to the girlfriend (Rachel Blanchard, "7th Heaven") of one of the guys (Breckin Meyer), with material likely to spell the end of their relationship.

7 p.m. on 38-WB

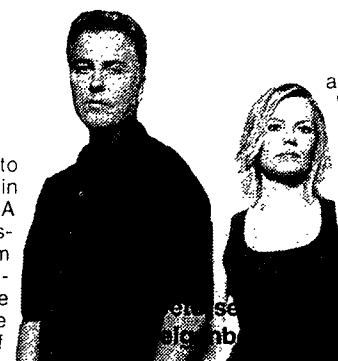

Movie: Fear

Teenage Nicole's (Reese Witherspoon) new boyfriend, David (Mark Wahlberg), is a 20-something hunk with a bad-boy air. Her father (William Petersen, "CSI: Crime Scene Investigation") sees what she can't: that David is no harmless rogue, but a controlling bully who'll soon cross the line into psycho-stalker mode. Amy Brenneman and Alyssa Milano co-star.

8 p.m. on 4-CBS

CSI: Crime Scene Investigation

A dentist is stabbed to death while watching a film in an "art house" theater in "A Night at the Movies." Grissom and Catherine (William Petersen, Marg Helgenberger) seek an attractive blonde who may be able to provide clues. The fatal shooting of a teenager puts Warrick, Nick and Sara (Gary Dourdan, George Eads, Jorja Fox) at odds over the evidence.

Movie: That Darn Cat

First filmed by the Disney studio in 1965 and featuring Hayley Mills, this comedy about a feline with a nose for danger was remade in 1997. Christina Ricci adds some edge to the role of Patti, the young owner of a cat that discovers a kidnapped maid. After she becomes aware of the abduction, Patti works with an FBI agent (Doug E. Doug) to find the victim and solve the crime. Dean Jones, who played the lawman in the original, co-stars.

6 p.m. on USA

Movie: GoldenEye

Pierce Brosnan makes his entrance as dashing Agent 007 and does a credible job filling the natty shoes of his predecessors. Perhaps even more importantly, the special effects, gags and drop-dead-gorgeous women appearing in this James Bond outing live up to the high standards of previous films. Famke Janssen, Izabella Scorupco and Sean Bean also star in this 1995 adventure.

7 p.m. and TNT

Movie: G.I. Jane

Demi Moore is at her buff, buzz-cut, butt-kicking best in this 1997 drama as a Navy lieutenant who becomes the first woman to undergo the brutal training of the elite SEALs. She's a test case to prove women have what it takes for full combat duty, but the brass assumes she won't make it, thus silencing the integrationists. Of course, she's not about to let that happen.

8:30 p.m. on 38-WB

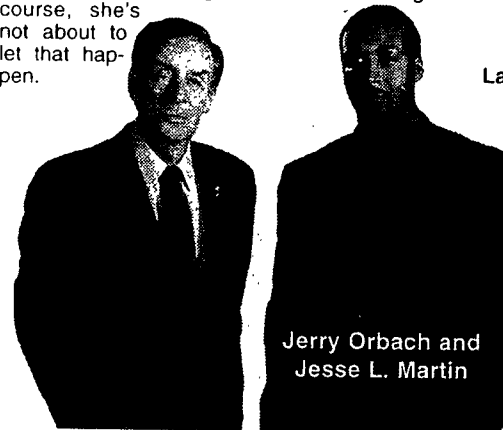

Grounded for Life

Though she usually stays out of Sean's (Donal Logue) business when it comes to business, Claudia (Megyn Price) has something to say about his newest employee in "Cat Scratch Fever." The bartender hired by Sean and Eddie (Kevin Fitzgerald Corrigan) is someone Claudia has had a grudge against since high school.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order: Special Victims Unit

Jerry Orbach and Jesse L. Martin make a crossover appearance as "Law & Order" police detectives Briscoe and Green in "Damaged." The partners team with Benson and Stabler (Mariska Hargitay, Christopher Meloni) to locate the rapist of a youngster who contracted a sexually transmitted disease from her assailant.

Saturday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Movie: Mighty Joe Young

An oversized African gorilla's world turns upside down when he is sent to America after being saved from poachers. Unfortunately, he is followed by a grudge-holding hunter who tortures him until he escapes and wreaks havoc in California. Only his childhood human friend (Charlize Theron) and a wildlife refuge worker (Bill Paxton) can save him from an untimely fate. Rick Baker's special effects are highlights of this 1998 remake.

7 p.m. on 6-NBC

Just Shoot Me

Vicki (Rena Sofer) establishes her own business in the magazine's office in the new episode "The Goodbye Girl." She begins giving staff members haircuts, but Jack (George Segal) determines that she's keeping employees from attending to business. Elliott (Enrico Colantoni) goes to an unlikely source — Finch (David Spade) — for help in getting his life in order.

7 p.m. on BRAV

Movie: Bugsy

Warren Beatty earned some of the best reviews of his career — and gained a spouse — by playing the title role in director Barry Levinson's ("Rain Man") fine 1991 portrait of mobster Bugsy Siegel. The gangster's relationship with actress Virginia Hill (Annette Bening, who became Beatty's wife after working with him here) gets much attention. The excellent supporting cast includes Ben Kingsley, Harvey Keitel and Elliott Gould.

8 p.m. on 6-NBC

Movie: Antz

This animated 1998 comedy-adventure movie has a myriad of famous voices and impressive computer imagery telling the stories of the trials and tribulations of — what else? — ants. A nonconformist (voice of Woody Allen) disrupts his colony's system by impersonating a soldier (voice of Sylvester Stallone) and falling in love with a princess (voice of Sharon Stone).

8:45 p.m. on HBO

Boxing

Fernando Vargas attempts to jab his way back into boxing's upper echelon with what should amount to an ego-boosting bout tonight against Fitz Vanderpool, from Olympic Arena in Los Angeles. It's taken Vargas (22-2, 20 KOs) 10 months to recover from his bloody loss to Oscar De La Hoya when De La Hoya unified the super welterweight titles. The Trinidad-born Vanderpool (24-4-4, 13 KOs) shouldn't be much of a match for a motivated Vargas.

9 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Dragnet

The city still is Los Angeles, and the detective's name still is Friday — Joe Friday — in "The Silver Slayer," the pilot for this update of the classic Jack Webb police drama. Ed O'Neill switches gears, dropping his Al Bundy persona from "Married ... With Children" for no-nonsense Friday, who works with younger partner Frank Smith (Ethan Embry, "Sweet Home Alabama"). "Law & Order" mentor Dick Wolf is the executive producer.

9 p.m. on 4-CBS

The District

Mannion (Craig T. Nelson) faces one of the biggest controversies of his career when a PCP-affected prisoner dies in police custody in "Criminally Insane." Those who want Mannion ousted are boosted by a lawsuit filed by the dead man's widow, but the mayor (Joseph C. Phillips) needs Mannion's help in finding his missing son. Jaclyn Smith reprises her recurring guest role as Vanessa Cavanaugh.

Charlize Theron
Bill Paxton

(Ratings for each film begin with a "star" rating - one star meaning "poor," four meaning "excellent" - followed by the Motion Picture Association of America rating, and then by a family-viewing guide, the key for which appears below.)

STARTING THIS WEEK (New releases):

"FINAL DESTINATION 2": Another teenager (A.J. Cook) manages to cheat death, after she foresees herself as a victim of a massive traffic accident, in this predictable yet effective sequel to the original thriller. Like the hero of the first film, she's chased by the dark force intending to claim her life, fleeing with others who are in the same boat. Ali Larter's character returns to let the new targets know what to expect. Tony Todd ("Candyman") also co-stars. DVD extras: theatrical trailer; audio commentary by director David Ellis, producer Craig Perry and screenwriters Eric Bress and J. Mackye Gruber; "making-of" documentaries; deleted and alternate scenes.  (R: AS, P, V)

"THE LIFE OF DAVID GALE": Director Alan Parker's ("Fame") somewhat preachy drama benefits from strong performances, particularly by Kevin Spacey in the title role of a college professor who's quite vocal in his opposition to capital punishment. His views intensify when he lands on death row, accused of killing a fellow activist (Laura Linney). A reporter (Kate Winslet) tries to determine his alleged innocence. DVD extras: theatrical trailer; audio commentary by Parker; "making-of" documentaries; deleted scenes; poster art; biographies.  (R: AS, P, V)

Video Vantage

"NICHOLAS NICKLEBY": The Charles Dickens classic gets a fresh, engrossing retelling from screenwriter-director Douglas McGrath ("Emma"). Forced by his uncle (Christopher Plummer) into a harsh school, Nicholas (Charlie Hunnam, "Undeclared") teams with classmate Smike (Jamie Bell) to escape. Also in the impressive cast are Anne Hathaway ("The Princess Diaries"), Nathan Lane, Jim Broadbent ("Iris") and Juliet Stevenson. DVD extras: audio commentary by McGrath; "making-of" documentary; multi-angle feature; photo gallery.  (PG: AS, V)

"KINGPIN": Perhaps broadcast TV's clearest attempt to approximate "The Sopranos," this violent NBC drama comes to home video in a three-volume set encompassing its first-year episodes. Yancey Arias ("The Time Machine") stars as a Mexican businessman on the brink of taking over his clan's drug cartel. He and his wife (Sheryl Lee, "Twin Peaks") try to keep their young son (Ruben Carbajal) from learning about the family business. Brian Benben ("Dream On") and Bobby Cannavale ("Third Watch") co-star. DVD extras: interviews with creator-producer David Mills and cast members.  (Not rated: AS, P, GV)

"FELICITY: THE COMPLETE SECOND SEASON": Since the first season of the sweetly melancholy drama series - originally seen on The WB Network and now in repeats on Lifetime - was released in a DVD set last fall, it's only proper for the sophomore year to get the same treatment. This batch of episodes starts by revealing with which beau Felicity (Keri Russell) chose to spend her summer: Noel (Scott Foley), who wanted her to travel through Europe with him, or her longtime hometown crush, Ben (Scott Speedman). DVD extras: audio commentary by creator-producers J.J. Abrams and Matt Reeves; original, untelevised pilot episode; cast auditions.  (Not rated: AS, P)

PURPOSE: An esoteric supporting cast of familiar faces is featured in this cautionary tale of a software tycoon (John Light) who gets too much too soon, then must rededicate himself to the principles that brought him overnight fame and wealth. An attempted hostile takeover shakes him back into reality - and into a desperate bid to save the company he founded. Mia Farrow, Peter Coyote, Paul Reiser, Hal Holbrook and Concetta Tomei are featured. DVD extras: theatrical trailer; deleted scenes.  (R: AS, P)

COMING SOON (Upcoming releases):

"DAREDEVIL" (July 29): A blind attorney (Ben Affleck) secretly moonlights as a costumed hero and encounters the vengeful Elektra (Jennifer Garner). (PG-13: AS, P, V)

"PIGLET'S BIG MOVIE" (July 29): Feeling rejected, Winnie the Pooh's porcine pal decides to go into the Hundred Acre Wood alone in this animated Disney tale. (G)

"THE QUIET AMERICAN" (July 29): Michael Caine earned an Oscar nomination as a reporter whose Vietnamese mistress falls for a younger man (Brendan Fraser). (R: AS, P, V)

"SOLARIS" (July 29): A psychologist (George Clooney) who has lost his wife (Natascha McElhone) is in for some big surprises when he boards a space station. (PG-13: AS, P)

FX gives a 'Nip/Tuck' to prime-time drama

It's Monday afternoon on the Paramount Studios lot, and preparations are under way for tummy-tuck surgery on "Nip/Tuck," FX's scalpel-sharp new drama about two Miami plastic surgeons, premiering Tuesday, July 22.

In the recovery room adjacent to the operating room, the technical advisor, registered nurse Dr. Linda Klein - who makes occasional on-screen appearances as Nurse Linda - schools actor Dylan Walsh ("Congo") on the finer points of incisions and wound closure (during filming, Walsh's steady hand with the stapler impresses the teacher).

In the operating room, technicians rig cameras on ladders for overhead shots. At the same time, director Larry Trilling and the crew labor over lighting and filming angles for the prosthetic abdomen - which miraculously has survived a comical TV segment taped earlier in which Walsh's co-star, Julian McMahon ("Charmed"), brandished an electric carving knife.

Realism is the key, with appropriate amounts of fake blood squirted here and there, and raw beefsteak (skirt steak, to be precise) standing in for the muscles under the section of tummy to be removed (which Walsh tosses into a basin with flair and a satisfying splat).

In a way, it's all those brutal parts of plastic surgery that ABC's "Extreme Makeover" skims over. The "Nip/Tuck" pilot opens with a buttocks implant, moves right past Botox injections and massive facial reconstruction and ends with a liposuction gone shockingly wrong.

"Even before I pitched the show," creator Ryan Murphy ("Popular") says, "I would tell friends about it and tell them the title, and they'd say, 'That sounds hilarious. It's a half-hour, right?' I'd say, 'No.' People see the title and think it's a very sarcastic, flip look at that world, and what I'm doing is a very dark look at that world, a psychological version of that world. I don't know what it is about the title, but they think it's escapist fun."

"There's nothing funny or entertaining about people carving up their faces to look different. It's not funny to me."

As dramatic as the surgeries are, they're only one facet of "Nip/Tuck." The show's primary focus is on the personal lives of the surgeons, 40-ish college buddies Christian Troy (McMahon), a dedicated playboy, and Sean McNamara (Walsh), a husband and father of two. Between them is McNamara's wife and college sweetheart, Julia (Joely Richardson), who has lost her enthusiasm for both her life and her marriage.

Also starring are John Hensley as the McNamaras' teen son, Matt; and Roma Maffia (McMahon's former "Profiler" co-star) as anesthesiologist Liz Winters.

As the story opens, Christian and Sean are facing midlife crises and re-evaluating the costs of their choices. The normally unemotional Sean even threatens to dissolve their lucrative partnership and strike out on his own. The pilot also hints at more than a little sexual tension between the womanizing Christian and the frustrated Julia.

"He's definitely somebody who wants what he can't have," McMahon says, "and she's definitely something he can't have. But I feel like, in a way, he's envious of Sean's life. He's envious of the way he can have a relationship with somebody for such a long period of time, have a family. It really means a lot to Christian that he can't even connect with himself."
